RUSS-GERMAN ARMISTICE IN FORCE

Germans Dash in Waves Against the British

BLOODIEST BATTLE OF THE WORLD WAR RAGES AT CAMBRAI

Using Great Forces of Infantry in Mass Formation, German Commanders Are Making Desperate Efforts to Break Through.

BRITISH MEET ATTACKS WITH GREAT FIRMNESS

Germans Come in Wave After Wave, But General Haig Reports British Line Holding at Practically All Points — Some Ground Is Retaken by the British.

New York, December 3.—(By Associated Press. From European Cables of the Day.)—Extremely hard fighting, with the Germans using great forces of infantry in mass formation, is taking place along the southwestern and southeastern sections of the Cambrai salient.

In the region of Gonnelieu, La Vacquerie and southward to Vendhiule, and northward toward Masnieres, battles waged with great fierceness throughout Monday, but with Germans nowhere successful in breaking the British front. At La Vacquerie they again succeeded in penetrating the village from which they were ejected previously, but a strong counter attack again turned the scales in favor of General Byng's forces, who threw out the enemy, inflicting heavy casualties on him.

BRITISH HOLD AT ALL POINTS.

As in their previous attacks, the Germans used great masses of artillery, but the British forces everywhere met their onslaughts stoically and at last accounts were firmly holding their line at all points.

Although the Germans in their offensive have been using men reckoned at twenty divisons, the British have been able at several points to regain some of the ground they lost in the initial attack, which was delivered with a suddenness similar to that of Byng's big drive toward Cambrai. Sunday night they had gained the eastern edge of the village of Villers-Guislain and driven out the Germans from La Vacquerie. They held this latter position until Monday morning, when they were compelled again to cede it to the enemy, only to take it again later in the day. Southwest of Bourlon village, to the west of Cambrai, the British also have recovered lost terrain.

The German war office asserts that six thousand British have been made prisoner during their drive, and that one hundred guns have been taken from them. A large number of the guns already have been recaptured. The four days' battle is described as the most sanguinary one that has taken place since the days of Verdun and the first battle of Ypres.

12 MEXICANS KILLED BY U. S. SOLDIERS

American Troops Crossed Rio Grande Into Mexico in Order to Get at the Outlaws.

Indio, Texas, December 3.—Mexican outlaws opened fire on one of the American cavalry patrols five miles from here late today, wounding Private Keist in the leg. The American troops stationed here immediately crossed the river into Mexico, opened fire on the little settlement of shacks and killed twelve of the bandits, including Felipe Romero and Rafael Venasiado.

The shacks where the outlaws sought shelter were burned after the occupants had been driven out.

Reinforcements, consisting of a battalion of mobile infantry and motorcycle machine gun troop equipment with machine guns reached here, and tonight are prepared for action should the bandits reassemble and attempt to resume the firing across the line.

WILSON ADDRESSES CONGRESS TODAY

Message Is Awaited With Great Interest—Estimates for Next Year's War Expenses Total $13,500,000,000.

Washington, December 3.—Congress is ready to take up again its part in the prosecution of the war.

The second session of the sixty-fifth congress began today at noon with brief routine sessions marked by the receipt of appropriation estimates for next year's war and ordinary expenses aggregating the vast sum of $13,500,000,000.

Tomorrow the senate and house will meet in joint session at 12:30 p. m. to hear President Wilson deliver his annual address.

Guidance of the president in the work ahead is awaited by tacit agreement. Congressional leaders tonight admitted that his recommendations, awaited with profound interest by the world, virtually would outline the session's program.

Speculation About Message.

Speculation as to the nature of the president's address centers largely upon the question whether he will recommend declarations of war by the United States against Germany's allies. General belief is that he will not, at least for the present, and that congress will follow his desires. Sentiment for such action is widespread, however, and individual members probably will introduce war resolutions. One or two senators were prepared today to offer such resolutions, but were prevailed upon to withhold them.

A spirit of confidence apparently pervades congress. Returning members exchanged views with declarations of increased determination to lend every aid in vigorous conduct of the war. The leaders predicted that legislation would be confined largely to war measures, as the president is understood to desire. Senator Martin, democratic leader in the senate, said there would be little time for other than war problems, and Representative Kitchin, the house floor leader, announced, after informal conferences with colleagues, that he was disposed to favor the plan. The understanding, however, is that the few weeks of the session, until after the holiday recess at least, will be open to general legislation.

The house judicial committee meets tomorrow and as consideration of national prohibition and woman suffrage measures was postponed at the last session on the basis of action at this session the disposition of many of the committeemen is to vote on them now, one way or the other.

Uniformed Men, Knitting Women.

A war-time aspect was given today's sessions by the presence of many uniformed men among spectators in the crowded galleries, and of women busily plying knitting needles during the opening ceremonies.

Senate proceedings were unusually brief. After adoption of routine resolutions the senate adjourned out of respect to the late Senator Hustings of Wisconsin. The house remained in session until the joint committee appoined to notify President Wilson of the return of congress reported, and then passed the resolution for tomorrow's joint session.

The usual crop of bills, resolutions and petitions was received in the house, including a resolution by Representative Martin of Louisiana proposing congressional investigation of the sugar shortage.

Representative John J. Fitzgerald, of Brooklyn, N. Y., chairman of the important house appropriations committee, prominent democratic leader, and a member of congress of eighteen years' service, announced late today his intention to resign, effective December 31, to resume the practice of law. His successor to head the appropriations committee probably will be Representative Swagard Shirley, of Louisville, Ky., ranking democratic committeeman.

Little business this week is planned by senate and house leaders, as the leaders and committee chairmen want an opportunity to confer and discuss procedure.

ONE MAN IS KILLED AND THREE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT LATE MONDAY NIGHT

Two Gallons of Liquor Are Found in Machine, Which Is Wrecked When It Strikes Wagon, According to Report of Police.

DRIVER OF AUTOMOBILE PLACED UNDER ARREST

Andy Bray Is Dead, Charles Lilly in Critical Condition and T. G. Hill, Driver, Is Slightly Hurt.

One man is dead, another in dying condition at Grady hospital, and two others are slightly injured as the result of a collision last night at 11:45 o'clock in Oakland city at the corner of Lee street and Avon avenue.

The accident happened when the touring car of Charles Lilly, a taxicab operator, driven by T. G. Hill, crashed into a Southern Express company wagon, which was driven by Mitchell Howell, colored.

Occupants Tossed Out.

The automobile and the wagon were almost demolished by the force of the crash, and the occupants were tossed at once to the ground.

When aid arrived it was found that Andy Bray, who was one of the occupants of the machine, was dead; Charles Lilly, the owner, in a dying condition; T. G. Hill and Mitchell Howell, both slightly hurt.

Automobiles rushed the dead and the injured to Atlanta, the injured being taken at once to Grady hospital for treatment and the body of Bray being given into the charge of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Find Liquor in Car.

Policemen from Atlanta made an investigation of the accident and they reported upon their return to Atlanta that they found in the car two gallons of liquor, which they brought to the police station with them.

A fourth man who was in the car, the police were told, made his escape before officers arrived on the scene.

Hill was placed under arrest after his injuries were attended to and a case of reckless driving was docketed against him at police station.

The automobile was badly torn up, the wagon was damaged and the mule was killed.

13 ESCAPED CONVICTS CAPTURE TROLLEY CAR

After Robbing Passengers and Crew Car Is Used to Escape.

Joliet, Ill., December 3.—The thirteen convicts, six of them convicted murderers, who overpowered two guards and escaped from the state penitentiary here early today late tonight stopped a Chicago, Ottawa and Peoria interurban car, robbed the passengers and crew and drove the car to Morris, Ill., where they abandoned it. New posses immediately were organized and went in pursuit of the bandits.

Just before the car reached Minooka the convicts appeared in a body on the track and flagged it. The thirteen men then rushed into the car, some armed with revolvers and others with sticks. The passengers were herded together and after being robbed were forced to leave the car. The conductor and motorman were forced to accompany the passengers.

The convicts then ran the car several miles to Morris, where it was abandoned.

A state of mind near a panic exists among the residents both of the city and of the countryside within a few miles of here and the streets were deserted at an early hour and doors and windows of all houses locked and barred.

Joliet authorities are convinced that the prison break was made with the aid of outsiders and are fearful that some of the men may now be hiding in the home of friends. No trace of the prison garb in which they made their escape has been seen.

Six Pershing Men Die.

Washington, December 3.—Six deaths from natural causes among privates of the American expeditionary forces were reported to the war department today by General Pershing. Five of the soldiers, none of whom were southern men, died of some form of pneumonia, and one from alcoholic poisoning.

Hero of Gray Kills Comrade At Vets' Home

Two Inmates of Institution Quarrel Over a Poker and Tragedy Results—"I Acted in Self Defense," the Aged Slayer Tells Police.

H. M. Cromer, bent and gray with years, a veteran of Kershaw's famous brigade, was brought from the Soldiers' home last night and locked up in Fulton Tower on a charge of murder.

At Grady hospital, H. G. Lamar, his comrade of the sixties, lies dead, killed by a blow from the poker over which they had quarreled.

It really didn't matter to whom the poker belonged, but, childlike, it seemed to them to matter more than anything else in the world. The two old vets, who had fought for the lost cause together, and who had been comrades for nearly two years in the Soldiers' home, quarreled over it. The argument grew more garrulous and the words more heated. A blow was struck. And then Comrade Lamar lay still upon the floor of the assembly room, and Comrade Cromer, bewildered, stood undisputed possessor of the poker. Other comrades picked Lamar up.

An ambulance was called and carried Lamar to Grady hospital, but it was too late.

Officers Hornsby and Wells came for Cromer and carried him to the tower.

He was a pitiful figure in the dim light behind the steel bars, still wide awake away in the small hours of the morning, long, long after the time when he would have been sleeping like a little baby out in his bed at the home before the awful thing happened.

It was with shaking emotion and broken voice that he told the story of how it happened.

"I am sorry I hit him," the old man said. "But I had to. It was in self-defense. He would have hurt me."

Cromer is a South Carolinian. He is 74 years old and came to the Soldiers' home about two years ago.

Lamar was about 72 years old, and his home is said to be near Macon. He came to the home shortly after Cromer. They had been friends.

Hindenburg and Ludendorff Assert War Will Not End in Draw — Ironical About Entry of America.

Amsterdam, December 3.—General von Ludendorff, right-hand man of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, is quoted by a correspondent of The Vienna Neue Freie Presse as making the prediction recently at German headquarters that the war will not end in a draw, but be decidedly in favor of the central powers.

The correspondent, says the Vienna dispatch, obtained this expression in conversations during a visit to headquarters.

"It appears the Russians are the first to be inclined for peace," General von Ludendorff said, "I will not say that I regard the Bolsheviki manifestation as a peace offer," he continued, "There must be a secure government for this purpose, one which possesses power to enforce internally and externally the results of the negotiations with us. Of course, we can conclude an armistice with Russia at any time as soon as we have the assurance that it will be maintained. A general armistice, however, will be difficult to achieve."

Long Armistice Opposed.

General von Ludendorff expressed the belief that a general armistice would interrupt submarine activity and allow the entente to improve its positions, while on the other hand no

69 CARS OF COAL TO ARRIVE TODAY FOR LOCAL YARDS

Relief From Shortage Given Consumers as Result of Visit of Atlanta Delegation to Washington.

35,000 TONS COMING BEFORE END OF YEAR

Administrator Kennedy Remains in Washington to Keep Check on Shipments While Other Atlantans Return.

Sixty-nine cars of coal, more than one-fourth of the amount needed to supply Atlanta until January 1, will arrive in the city today, as a result of the visit to Washington of the local delegation headed by Henry B. Kennedy, federal fuel administrator of Atlanta, for a conference with the national authorities.

It was announced in Atlanta Monday that 200 cars, or the 35,000 tons of domestic coal needed to supply the city until January 1, would be shipped here from day to day until the entire amount was received.

W. D. Baker, president of the Atlantic Ice and Coal company, who returned to Atlanta Monday to keep check upon the coal received in the city, stated last night that the 69 cars of coal were on their way to the city and would arrive today.

Delegation in Washington.

The delegation, composed of Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Baker, W. H. White, Jr., president-elect of the chamber of commerce, and J. B. Campbell, of the R. O. Campbell Coal company, left for Washington last Thursday, where the members appeared before a representative of the federal fuel administration.

They furnished a list of the Atlanta coal dealers, the mines from which they purchased their coal, the amounts of the coal handled by each dealer, the supply of coal sold by the dealers to their customers up to the present time, and the amount necessary for the needs of the city, and asked for orders to have coal shipped into the city as quickly as possible.

Owing to the showing which was made, the administration issued the necessary orders at once and further promised the delegation to order the railroads to give prior consideration to these shipments.

It was decided that Mr. Kennedy should remain in Washington to check up the shipments made to Atlanta. Mr. Baker, since his return to the city Monday afternoon, has kept Mr. Kennedy informed as to notices received from all mines as to shipments.

Mr. Baker is making a canvass of all coal companies in the city and ascertaining from each company the amount of coal received by them from the mines. According to him, Atlanta citizens need not worry about the shortage of coal if all of the 200 car shipments to be made are as prompt as the first 16.

Operators Want Higher Price.

The coal which has arrived in Atlanta was billed to the dealers at the price prevailing at the day of shipment, and the shipments now in transit will be billed at the price prevailing on the days upon which the shipments are made, according to the delegation.

Upon the Atlanta delegation's arrival in Washington they found a number of coal operators representing the mines of this territory, there engaged in a controversy with the fuel administration, demanding an increase in their price at the mouth of the mines.

Upon Mr. White's return home he was asked what the delegation did in regard to the price of coal. In reply to this question he said:

"We found in Washington a large number of coal operators representing the mines in this territory and demanding an increase in their price at the mouth of the mine. They represented to us that the price fixed by the government for their coal is not sufficient to yield a profit.

"We were not willing to ask the fuel administration to increase their price as a means of securing the coal we went after. We took the position that we had nothing to do with their controversy involving price.

"We insisted that the fuel administration give us coal at the price fixed by the government.

"If the fuel administration sees fit to allow an increase in the price of coal at the mouth of the mines in this territory, it will do so on a basis of the showing made by the operators, and not at our request."

Runaway Balloons Terrify Residents Of Three States

Two Huge Army Bags Break From Moorings and Do Damage in Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska.

Kansas City, Mo., December 3.—Two United States observation ballons that were unleashed by accident and shot unguided into the air were brought to the ground early tonight. One, a huge bag of the new French type, escaped from students at Fort Omaha, Nebraska, late yesterday and, trailing 6,000 feet of steel tethering cable, traveled a spectacular course through Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and thence back into Nebraska, where it was captured. The other, apparently a smaller type, carried two army officers when its anchor line was broken by an airplane. The balloon was brought down by the men about 30 miles from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where it had broken away.

The Fort Omaha balloon, inflated with 35,000 cubcic feet of gas, for nearly 24 hours played a gigantic game of hide and seek with Kansas cities and towns, as strong winds wafted it back and forth, the thousands of feet of heavy cable dragging the ground throughout the course, and left a trail of destroyed telephone and telegraph wires in its path. Whole blocks of wires were torn down and poles broken off or uproot.

At Newton, Kan., much damage was done to residences and business blocks when the bag dragged ts "tail" in a criss-cross path across the town. At another place the roof of a house was dragged off.

The flight of the Fort Sill fugitive, while less spectacular than that of the Nebraska stray, created the more apprehension among army officers and others because two officers were carried aloft with it. The officers, however, brought the gas bag to the ground in safety. Neither man was injured, and the balloon was not damaged, reports said. The officers would not comment on their flight.

The airplane that crashed into the cable that controlled the Fort Sill balloon was slightly damaged and fluttered 100 feet to the ground. The pilot was not seriously injured.

GERMANY LOSES HER LAST COLONY

London Announces That the Forces of the Kaiser Have Been Completely Cleared From East Africa.

London, December 3.—"East Africa has been completely cleared of the enemy."

This official announcement was made tonight.

The text of the announcement reads:

"Telegraphing under date of December 1 General Vandeventer (commander of the military forces in East Africa) has reported that reconnaissances have definitely established German East Africa is completely cleared of the enemy. Thus the whole of German overseas possessions have passed into our hands and those of our Belgian allies.

"Only a small German force now remains in being. This has taken refuge in adjoining Portuguese territory and measures are being taken to deal with it."

With the loss of East Africa all of her colonies have been taken from Germany. These had an area of more than 1,000,000 square miles and a population of about 14,000,000, including 25,000 whites.

German East Africa, which has a coast line of about 620 miles and an estimated area of 384,000 square miles, was attacked early in 1915 by the British forces, including South African troops, under General Jan Christian Smuts, from the north, and by Belgian and Portuguese troops, from the south and west.

Prior to this, British East Africa had been invaded, and General Smuts, who succeeded General Sir Horace Lockwood-Smith-Derrien, found that he had contended with an army of about 50,000 native troops, aided by 3,000 Germans and possessing powerful artillery.

Starting on March 3, the British troops in two weeks of hard fighting drove the German army off British territory and had captured a considerable section of their country. From that time to the present the advance of the British forces and their occupation of German territory has been steadily carried out. It was recently officially announced that the British commander was preparing to make his final drive at the single remaining German force in German East Africa, which was estimated to number 2,000 rifles.

TRUCE IS ARRANGED FOR LARGE PORTION OF BATTLE FRONT

Both Berlin and Vienna Officially Announce That Agreement Has Been Reached—Bulgaria Moves for Peace With Russia.

RUSSIANS CONFERRING WITH PRINCE LEOPOLD

At Ten O'Clock Sunday Evening Hostilities Were Stopped--Reports Indicate That the Russian and German Troops Are Fraternizing.

New York, December 3.—(By Associated Press. From European Cables of the Day.)—No details have yet been received concerning the negotiations between the Germans and the Russians for an armistice, although the German grand headquarters announces that an armistice already is in force on sections of the Russo-German front. In addition to Austria-Hungary accepting the proposal of the Russians for a cessation of hostilities, Bulgaria also is to open negotiations with Russia with the same object in view.

Meanwhile, the internal situation in Russia remains acute. Infantry and machine gun detachments have been sent against the general staff headquarters at the front, where refusal met the Bolsheviki regime's demand that proper arrangements be made by the commander-in-chief with the Germans for an armistice.

TRUCE IN OPERATION ON MANY SECTIONS, BERLIN REPORTS

Berlin, December 3.—(Via Amsterdam to London.)—An actual armistice already is in operation in sections of the Russo-German front, a bulletin from German great headquarters reports today.

A Russian deputation, the official statement says, has arrived at the command of Prince Leopold of Bavaria with the object of arranging a general armistice.

The statement says:

"Eastern Theater: In many sectors of the Russian front a local armistice has been agreed to by several divisions. The Russian army in the region from the Pripet to south of the Lipa, and several Russian general commands have decided upon a truce. Further negotiations are proceeding. A Russian deputation has arrived at the command of General Field Marshal Prince Leopold of Bavaria with the object of bringing about a general armistice."

Amsterdam, December 3.—An armistice was agreed to Saturday with the Russian army, according to a Berlin dispatch. It was to begin at 10 o'clock on the evening of Sunday, when hostilities were to be stopped and arrangements made concerning intercourse between the lines, troop movements in Austria Announces Armistice.

Vienna, December 3.—(Via London.) The following official communication was issued today:

"During the last few days an armistice has been announced on many sectors of the Russian front, from division to division, and from corps to corps. In the Pripet region the Russian army concluded an official armistice with the opposing command of the allied (Teutonic) troops.

"A Russian deputation crossed our lines yesterday in order to prepare the way with the plenipotentiaries of the allied (Teutonic) armies for an armistice on the whole of the Russian front."

London, December 3.—Russian general headquarters, it is officially announced, has reported that on Friday fraternization had increased, especially on the northern and western (Russian) fronts in connection with the armistice negotations entered into with the Bolsheviki.

Russian headquarters also announces that the Russian torpedo boat Bditelnyi was blown up by an enemy mine Thursday.

BULGARIA TO OPEN PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

Amsterdam, December 3.—Bulgaria has decided to open negotiations with Russia in accordance with her allies, and has sent a reply to this effect to the Russian government, a Sofia dispatch says. This announcement was made in the Bulgarian parliament with Premier Radoslavoff.

LEON TROTZKY SCORES GERMAN MILITARISTS.

Petrograd, December 3.—The German militarists are not listening out of humanitarian motives or a feeling of sympathy towards Russia to the proposal for an armistice, Leon Trotzky, the Bolsheviki foreign commissioner, said in an address to the soldiers' and workmen's delegates. Only fear of the German proletariat, inspired by the example of the Russian revolutionists, prompted them to accept the overtures, he asserted.

"If the German emperor and his generals, their breasts covered with ribbons for the slaughter they have committed, had their way," Trotzky declared, "the Russian revolution would have died, applauded by the bourgeoise and by our present allies. The German emperor and his generals entered into negotiations because the Russian revolutionists said 'to the nations of the world: For 40 months you have been ruining the lives of hundreds of millions. Hunger is spreading wider and wider.'

"The Russian revolution has pointed a way out, and this makes us forget the want of military success. The emperor had spoken to us as equal to equal because he knows a revolution of the German proletariat, a rebellion of soldiers and peasants, would be the answer if he gave any other reply."

VICTORY CERTAIN, SAY GERMAN CHIEFS

supplies would reach the central powers. Therefore, he thought such an armistice should be a brief one.

General von Ludendorff considered the Russian revolution not a mere piece of luck for the central powers, but a natural result of the war operations.

"Modern war," said the general, "is a war of peoples, not of armies, and a war ends now when an enemy people is defeated. There are no decisive battles, as in former wars. The battles merely have an indirect influence on the whole national system, inducing decay and collapse."

The correspondent said he gained the impression that Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General von Ludendorff desire a peace which will create conditions of security and stability as far as possible, one which will bring with it secure frontiers and free economic activity on land and sea.

With reference to the Russian army, Field Marshal von Hindenburg gave to the correspondent his opinion that no more military activity on a large scale could be expected from it. He thought it possible, however, adds the correspondent, that "some despot or other like Grand Duke Nicholas might seize power and incite the war-weary Russian army to a final effort."

Hindenburg Ironical About America.

Regarding the situation on the western front Field Marshal von Hindenburg said the successful employment of the German policy of elastic defense continued and that when occasional sections of morasses or smoke-blackened debris were left to their opponents for the purpose of saving human material it was of no importance.

Regarding the supreme war council of the allies, the field marshal said with a smile:

"Such institutions are always a sign of incapacity and helplessness. When they are at their wits end a war council is established."

Field Marshal von Hindenburg ironically referred to "the American advertising methods," adding:

"It is certain that the United States is making efforts to create a big army, and the war is an opportune pretext for this as in peace times the difficulties would be too great to do it. Japan, too, would not have looked on with indifference. The Americans will hardly send their newly-created army to Europe at once, as by doing so their own country would be rendered helpless in case Japan should show a sudden inclination to square up old accounts with America.

"Moreover, the transport question would offer difficulties not less than supplies. German U-boats would be a further obstacle. It certainly may be easy to build thousands of airplanes, as America has announced, but it is difficult to equip them. But wherever they may appear the Germans will not be wanting."

The Operations in Italy.

With reference to the operations in Italy, Von Hindenberg said:

"The Austro-Hungarian army command, with which we have co-operated excellently, and its troops have stood the test splendidly. The German and Austro-Hungarian troops fought bravely and overcome all obstacles. Their advance and their achievements are excellent."

General von Ludendorff, speaking on the same aspect of the war, said:

"Nothing definite can be said regarding our final aim in Italy. At any rate, Triest is out of danger; the front has been shortened by one-half and the enemy has lost hundreds of thousands of prisoners and half of his artillery and material. Moreover, with the advancing season, the climatic difficulties will increase, especially in the mountains. On the whole, every offensive must have a somewhat long interruption or end."

Von Hindenberg, in concluding the interview, said:

"If, for some time yet, we maintain our strength and exercise patience, we shall carry it to a good end."

General von Ludendorff said that for Germany there was no question as to Alsace-Lorraine. He thought a decisive blow against France perhaps would yet succeed, although nowadays, when national strength fights national strength, a single blow could hardly decide the war.

The general said, however, that it was not to be doubted a single moment who would be the victor.

Defends U-Boat Warfare.

Asked whether the western European powers, without prospect of America's assistance, would not in the meantime have been forced to conclude peace, General von Ludendorff said:

"Since the U-boat war gave America a pretext to enter the war, this question is tantamount to the question as to whether the U-boat war was the right policy. Regarding this, my conviction is unchanged. The U-boat war is right. It has accomplished what we expected. It was not a question of starving England within a few months, but of making her inclined toward peace. The supreme army command intended by means of the submarine war to cause not so much special, but general effects, and especially as regards England—to cut off her very important supplies of coal pit props.

"How effective the campaign has been in this respect is proved by the report of the chief of the German field railways that the allied troops in Italy need no other supplies than coal. The scarcity of British tonnage also is proved by England's inability to import Australian wheat."

PEACHTREE PAVING FACES LONG DELAY

Permanent Work on Road Through Fulton County May Not Be Started Until Next Spring.

Without federal aid the permanent paving of Peachtree road may not be started until spring, according to a statement made yesterday by Dr. W. L. Gilbert, of the Fulton county commission, although it is hoped to begin the work of patching up the road this week.

When the commissioners meet Wednesday morning one of the most important matters which they will take up for consideration will be the improvement of the road from the city limits to Buckhead.

Dr. Gilbert stated Monday that it appears the commissioners will not be able to place a permanent pavement on the road at once, but that in the meantime they will undertake to repair the present pavement and put the road in best possible condition for service of traffic between Atlanta and Camp Gordon until the permanent pavement can be put down.

The commission expects to take up both the matter of the repairing and the permanent paving of the road at the Wednesday meeting.

The commission, Dr. Gilbert stated, is ready to go ahead with the permanent paving now, but is unable to get the material for the work because cars cannot be obtained to transport the material. The commission will ask the federal government for an immediate release of enough cars to get the material to Atlanta.

To Ask Federal Aid.

Inasmuch as Peachtree road serves Camp Gordon and is therefore in the nature of a military road, the commissioners will ask the government to aid in the improvement of the road, either in the entirety of the construction cost, just as it has helped DeKalb county, or in co-operation with Fulton county.

The work is ready to start on the improvement of Peachtree road from the Fulton-DeKalb line to the camp, and the Fulton commissioners are determined that when that improvement is completed the burden of a bad road to Camp Gordon shall not rest on Fulton county.

Dr. Gilbert thinks that the commissioners may be able to put a gang at work repairing the road by the latter part of this week.

Just when it will be possible to begin the permanent work is contingent largely upon the co-operation the county is able to get from the federal government, either in financial aid or in the release of cars for material, if the county is compelled to bear the entire expense of improvement alone.

May Quarry Own Stone.

Should the county be unable to secure the release of cars for the transportation of material, it will probably be necessary for rthe county to quarry its own stone for the work. In this event, it would be at least two or three months before the work of permanent improvement could start, says Dr. Gilbert.

The permanent pavement for Peachtree road will probably be concrete or concrete with asphalt top.

The road from the city limits to Buckhead is in bad condition. The holes in the pavement have been greatly enlarged by the heavy traffic between the city and the camp, and more holes are being worn into the pavement all the time. Extremely careful driving is necessary in order that the road, in its present condition, may not be an actual menace.

$2,308 RAISED MONDAY FOR RAILROAD Y. M. C. A.

Reports made last night of the first day's work of the Railroad Young Men's Christian association members toward the campaign fund of $15,000 wanted for the improvements of their new home at the former Masonic temple, corner of Forsyth and Mitchell streets, showed that $2,308 had been raised.

The campaign was launched Monday morning by 100 determined and enthusiastic workers of the organization who plan to have the necessary $15,000 by Saturday night. The amounts subscribed to the organization will be used in making the Masonic temple a model club room for the many thousands of railroad employees of the city.

Reports of each day's subscriptions toward the fund desired will be made daily at the 6:30 o'clock dinners held at the association headquarters. W. S. Richardson, freight agent for the Western and Atlantic railroad, is the chairman of the management committee. W. A. Woodall, conductor on the Southern railway, chairman of the building committee, and Tull C. Waters, Southern engineer, chairman of the campaign executive committee.

WAR THRIFT TALKS AT THE TABERNACLE

Billy Sunday will devote a part of his time at his services tonight boosting the sale of war thrift stamps, the campaign for the sale of which is now being launched in Atlanta by State Director Hugh M. Richardson and his organization.

Mr. Richardson took the matter up with Mr. Sunday Monday afternoon, and his appeal for aid met with a ready response from Mr. Sunday. Not only is Mr. Sunday going to talk for the sale of thrift stamps, but he has approved the erection of a sales booth on the tabernacle grounds. This booth will be opened at once, and an official from the postoffice will be placed in charge, so that stamps may be purchased at the tabernacle. Mr. Sunday started the campaign rolling Monday with the purchase of a $100 certificate.

Director Richardson will explain at the Tuesday night tabernacle meeting what the war savings campaign means to the people and the success of the war and how the business and financial end of the movement will be handled. Mr. Sunday will show the moral and social effect of such a campaign upon a community.

The stamps are now on sale in Atlanta, and the campaign, which will continue for twelve months, is expected to realize $2,000,000,000.

The thrift stamps sell for 25 cents, and with the first stamp purchased a thrift card is given containing spaces for 20 stamps. When the card is filled out it may be traded for a war saving certificate by paying 12 cents additional. The interest on the certificate is compounded quarterly and in December, 1923, when the certificates are redeemed, it will be worth $5. The thrift stamps are not redeemable until 1923, but the certificates may be redeemed by giving the postoffice ten days' notice.

Certificates valued at $100 also may be purchased by paying $82.40. These certificates bear interest at the same rate of the smaller ones, and also are redeemable in December, 1923. They net the purchaser a profit of $17.60 in the five years.

The stamps are on sale at the Poplar street entrance of the postoffice and there were a large number of purchasers Monday, according to Assistant Postmaster Staton. Each carrier also will be provided with the stamps and the certificates, and they may be purchased from them at any time they are on duty. Rural carriers also will act as salesmen.

BOARDING SCHOOLS MUST GET LICENSES

Council Votes to Bar City Attorney From Prosecuting City Officers Unless Especially Authorized.

City council's meeting Monday afternoon was featured by passage of several new ordinances; a vote to again refer to the salary committee of council ordinances proposing to increase the salaries of city employees, and by a "rising pledge" to Mayor Candler to attend with him and 2,000 city employees the Billy Sunday meeting at the tabernacle tomorrow night.

The Buchanan ordinance which makes it illegal for the city attorney to prosecute any officer of the city unless authorized to do so by council, was passed. Unless council so directs he is to act in an advisory capacity for both the city board trying an officer of the city and the officer on trial.

This ordinance was introduced with the view of preventing the police board from ever utilizing the city attorney or his assistants in prosecuting police officers. It was introduced as the result of the trial of Police Chief James L. Beavers.

Boarding Schools Need Licenses.

Councilman Bell's ordinance requiring all boarding schools in the city to take out licenses, to be granted by council, was passed without a dissenting vote. This ordinance aims especially at a negro boarding school in a white settlement in the fifth ward.

The fifth ward representatives in council stated that the negro boarding school in their ward had become obnoxious to the white settlement in which it was located.

The ordinance proposing strict regulations and rules for restaurants in the city was not acted on by council, as Councilman Orme, chairman of the ordinance committee of the council, discovered at the last moment that it had been "unsatisfactorily" drawn, and must be rewritten.

An ordinance proposing to allow the tax committee of council to raise the city tax investigator's salary to $2,400, if it so sees fit, was introduced in council, and referred without objection of any members to the ordinance committee of council for investigation and a report.

Increase Size of Tanks.

An ordinance, by Councilman Fred C. Woodall, increasing the size of gasoline tanks, underground, to 550 gallons capacity, from 270 gallons, was adopted by council.

The ordinance proposing increases in the salaries of city firemen, school teachers and other employees, passed at the last meeting of council and held up by objections from Councilman Buchanan, was reconsidered by council Monday, and re-referred to the salary committee of council for further investigation. The salary committee of council is at present working out a schedule of salary increases.

The ordinance proposing an increase for policemen was taken from the table by the aldermanic board, at this board's meeting following the meeting of council, and reconsidered. When Alderman Seawright informed the aldermen that the city attorney had ruled that salary increases for policemen, who are on civil service basis, must be fixed by council before the first of the year if they were to become effective before January, 1919, he nearly won a decisive victory for the policemen. The aldermanic board, however, decided to table the question until Thursday afternoon, in order that the water board might have a chance Wednesday afternoon to decrease water discount rates, and thereby increase the city's revenue whereby salary increases next year might be met.

Trapshooting Allowed.

An ordinance was passed by council permitting the Georgia Tech Aviation school to hold trapshooting events at the Tech athletic field. Dr. K. G. Matheson, president of Tech, was present in the council chamber and stated after the meeting that trapshooting with clay pigeons was necessary to train the young aviators at Tech to become good shots with machine guns.

Council adopted the official city tax list as the registration list for Wednesday's election.

Resignations of the following board members were filed with council: I. F. Styron, police board, aldermanic nominee for council from the sixth ward; Harvey Hatcher, board of education, aldermanic nominee of the second ward; T. A. Conger, Grady hospital board, councilmanic nominee from the first ward; and T. E. Maffett, of the board of health, councilmanic nominee from the tenth ward.

The city attorney has ruled that city officials must resign their places before they can run in the general election for other city positions. Election day is Wednesday.

ATLANTA WOMAN REGAINS ALL LOST WEIGHT

Another Instance Where Vitona Proves Its Merit.

VITONA IS NON-ALCOHOLIC AND ITS EFFECTS ARE PERMANENT.

"I know that Vitona is all and more than it is claimed to be," said Mrs. O. Corley, LaFrance street, Atlanta, Ga.

"I feel quite sure that there is not another product of its kind in the world for which I would give a public statement.

"What I like most of all is, Vitona has no alcohol or manufactured dope in it. It does not brace you up for a few hours and fool you into the belief that it is doing you good, when as a matter of fact the temporary 'brace up' was the effect of the alcohol. It has brought me great relief from stomach trouble, indigestion, and I simply 'clean up' at meal time—now.

"Do I feel badly after I eat?

"No, sir-ee; not a bit of it. I can eat anything I want since I began taking Vitona.

"As to that awful kidney trouble—I felt better of that in three days after I began taking Vitona. My blood is in fine condition now, in fact, I am just a new woman all around."

This lady struck the key-note when she referred to the temporary "brace-up." Yes, sir, the laws of nature are as immutable as the laws of God. So all nature must be right, for it comes through the Higher Power.

AND YOU CAN'T IMPROVE BY PUTTING ALCOHOL IN IT, or any other dope that will give artificial, temporary relief. Vitona is just like nature made it—therefore it must be right. Vitona lays the right sort of foundation upon which to build up the system and the work it does is lasting. For a good, sure blood maker, Vitona has no equal. It works wonders in cases of kidney and bladder troubles, indigestion, stomach disorders—a world "beater" for rheumatism.

Vitona is on sale at E. H. Cone's, a good drug store.—(adv.)

There have been statements that Mayor J. R. Littleton, whose term of office is now expiring, is to become a candidate for congress to succeed to the place now held by Congressman Carl Vinson. Judge Vinson will be a candidate to succeed himself.

WORKERS TO SELL SEALS ARE NAMED

Plans for Campaign Outlined at Dinner Attended by Officers of Anti-Tuberculosis Society and Ad Men.

Around the dinner table at which Frank Lowenstein presided, the Advertising Club of Atlanta planned a Red Cross Christmas seal sale that is assured success, for every man present was ready to do more than his part.

Walter S. Hill and Stanley Mathewson were named heads of two competitive teams, with sub-captains, each with a team helping, these including the entire 145 members of the club.

The captains and teams will meet Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock in the chamber of commerce, and from there start on their mission of seeing business Atlanta and giving every man the opportunity and privilege of doing his part toward eradicating the white plague, and preventing its spread at this crucial moment when public health is the greatest asset.

Addresses Are Made.

Hugh Willet, president of the Anti-Tuberculosis Association, was present, and spoke in behalf of that organization, setting forth Atlanta's needs this year. W. W. Orr and Beaumont Davison were present, pledging the assistance of the Retail Merchants' association. F. J. Paxon, chairman of the executive board of the Ad Men's club, spoke, explaining the co-operative interest of the Red Cross society, but stressing the fact that the Red Cross Christmas seals had no connection with the Red Cross economy label on the "Carry your bundle home" movement.

Mrs. Beaumont Davison, representing the woman's committee, which will aid in selling the stamps, stated that her committees were all appointed, and their stations decided upon for woman's sale day, December 12.

AMUSEMENTS

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

Several features of merit made the Keith vaudeville show at the Lyric last night a welcome entertainment to Atlanta's vaudeville lovers.

Elsie La Bergere, in her novelty posing, proves very pleasing. Miss La Bergere has a couple of bird dogs and a white collie which she uses in her posing that lend an element of realism to her hunting pictures. Her interpretation of "The French Clock" and "The Dutch Girl" and "Off for the Chase" were all rare exhibitions of skill. Incidentally, Miss La Bergere's physical proportions help her act along.

A little girl by the name of Josephine Davis furnished as much wholesome entertainment as any other act. She has a good voice, and her character songs were far above the average. Josephine Davis will furnish a lot of pleasure to every patron of the Lyric while she is there.

"The Three Lyres," musical comedians, have a neat number. French horns, trumpets, kettle drums, cornets, trombones and a marimba are used in this act. Harvey, as a black-face, is the "joker" of the trio.

The "Wheeler Trio," acrobatic entertainers, won frequent applause by daring "stunts."

Bonnie Gaylord and Iva Lancton, eccentric girls, in "Two Cork-ing Girls," have a good act, though it does not possess the merit of the other offerings.

TILLOU FORBES.

Loew Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

Quaint little Beth Chalis and her partner, Ed Lambert, are billed as the headline features of the vaudeville show at Loew's Grand theater, and they are deserving of the place on the bill. At the same time you could pick out Walter Clinton and Julia Rooney, or Smith and Kaufman, and they would be quite as deserving. It is a well balanced bill, pleasingly free from any makeshift number.

Miss Chalis is very dainty and pretty and is brimful of personality. Her songs are new and original, the whimsical little character bit, "I'd Like to be the Janitor's Child," making quite a hit with the audience. Lambert presides at the piano, while his pretty partner sings and dances. The act closes with a lively jazzbo band imitation.

Julia Rooney is the famous Pat Rooney's sister, and does a creditable imitation of her brother's dancing, though she does not need to lean on her brother's reputation to get by. Her imitation is introduced by a moving picture of herself in her dressing room making up for her brother's part, and when she appears on the stage made up just as she looked in the picture, it is very effective. She and her partner, Walter Clinton, are both very entertaining. The biggest laugh of the bill is furnished by Smith and Kaufman, in a comedy skit, called "A Midnight Occurrence." The act is made up largely of comedy patter and songs, closing with "Yamo-Yamo-land," a medley ranging from ragtime to grand opera. The Alsace-Lorraine song is new and hits a popular note.

A very large amount of credit must also be given to two bitterest enemies who combine to make a very entertaining number—the humble house cat and the pestiferous rat. In Swain's Cats and Rats. Swain has a large collection of both cats and rats, and they are astonishingly well trained. The bill is completed with the Archie Dunbar Trio, an eccentric aerial and bouncing net act of merit.

The photoplay is also an unusually good picture. "The Awakening" is the title. Montague Love creates a wonderfully absorbing character. It is perhaps his best piece of work. Loew's Universal news films and comedy reels complete the picture program.

Musical Comedy.

(At the Rialto.)

What many patrons declared was the best bill the Rialto has yet presented was offered at the Forsyth street playhouse yesterday afternoon and last night when the Maddock-Parks Musical Comedy company opened a week's engagement here.

There are many interesting features in the entertaining line given by these clever performers, and the audience seemed to thoroughly appreciate their work.

The dancing of various members of the company led the way for the applause, although a number of songs were also appreciatively received.

One of the big features is the act of the Six Alarcons, which is in reality a vaudeville act, given in the middle of the performance, offering singing and dancing of merit. The majority of the applause of this number was won by a young girl, who showed a high degree of skill in the terpsichorean art, and by a little boy, who sang a patriotic song and followed it with a combination cowboy-Russian dance. The youngster got the lion's share of clapping at that.

The feature picture for the first half of the week is pretty Juliette Day in "The Calendar Girl," and another big picture value is found in "Who is Number One?" the second episode being shown this week.

Performances are continuous from 1:30 until 11 o'clock, and the bill is changed every Monday and Thursday.

Davenny Quintet.

(At the Auditorium.)

The Davenny Festival Quintet, of Pittsburg, presented by the Alkahest Lyceum course, gave a long and varied program at the Auditorium Monday night.

There was variety enough in the program to satisfy the musical appetite of anyone in the audience. Plantation songs were followed by selections from grand opera, and there were some excellent instrumental solos. The following is the personnel of the company:

Hollis Edison Davenny, baritone and violinist; Mrs. Devenny, soprano and reader; Miss Clara Irene Gray, contralto; Harry Strub, tenor, and William Meldrum, pianist and accompanist.

Mrs. Davenny has a wonderfully rich soprano, but, owing to a slight indisposition, she found it desirable to abandon one or two of her numbers on the program. Miss Gray has a contralto of great range and sweetness, and appeared to be at her best. Mr. Davenny and Mr. Strub received encores, as did Mr. Meldrum.

"Chin Chin" Tonight.

(Atlanta Theater.)

Doyle and Dixon and the alluring femininity set to entrancing music and bearing the label of "Chin Chin" will tonight begin an engagement of three nights and Wednesday matinee at the Atlanta theater. The coming of this greatest of Dillingham successes has eagerly been looked forward to, for, like Henry W. Savage, Mr. Dillingham has an established reputation of doing a thing well or not at all. The company to be seen here in this most remarkable of all musical comedies is the only one on the road and the production in its entirety will be the same that achieved the sensational record of a stay of two solid years at the Globe theater, New York. Seven gorgeous scenes are used in the production and a large company of the best that managerial ingenuity could gather together, a chorus that for beauty and real singing ability could not be improved upon and two comedians, Doyle and Dixon, whose place as legitimate successors to Montgomery and Stone is now undisputed, all go to make up a most remarkable performance, one that should crowd the Atlanta theater to capacity throughout the engagement, which is limited to three nights and matinee.

Harold Lockwood.

(At the Strand.)

Harold Lockwood, star of the new Metro wonderplay, "The Square Deceiver," is distinctly a screen star. Unlike many of his brother luminaries, Mr. Lockwood came to the films without much previous stage experience. His stage career covered a period of only two years, while his camera debut dates back about eight years. Mr. Lockwood's entrance into film life was accomplished more by chance than by design. A friend of his urged him to try for motion pictures. Mr. Lockwood did not think much of the idea, but to please his friend he took the letter of introduction offered and visited a New York motion picture producer. It resulted in his being offered an engagement which he accepted.

Jack Pickford.

(At the Vaudette.)

"I believe in some state of pre-existence, if there is such a thing, that I must have been a little Parisian apache, for the costume that I wear in 'Jack and Jill,' the newest Paramount photo-play in which I am starred with Jack Pickford, suited me so well and I so much enjoyed wearing it!" laughed demure Louise Huff the other day at the studios. "The costume consists," she went on, "of a threadbare suit of thinnest serge, a home-made hat of bunched-up silk with a soiled plume over one ear and down-at-the-heel shoes. As to Mr. Pickford's costume, it corresponded in every respect and was, in fact, even worse looking than mine, as he was a prize fighter, penniless most of the time." "Jack and Jill" will appear at the Vaudette theater today.

Ruth Clifford.

(At the Odeon.)

The first Bluebird to be shown at the Odeon theater—Ruth Clifford, in "The Door Between"—proved very popular all day Monday and at every performance there were large crowds, which were more than delighted with this very clever and interesting photo-play which deals with the adventures of "Anthony and Absolute." Anthony, while in the Orient, meets with a number of experiences as the result of his efforts to protect a lovely young lady from a husband, who is anything else but a lovely character. To add to the complications, Anthony falls in love with her, and then come troubles galore.

Constance Talmadge Makes Screen Debut As Star in "Scandal"

Constance Talmadge made her bow as a screen star at the Criterion theater Monday in "Scandal," based on Cosmo Hamilton's novel of the same name. Her performance proves her to be a clever comedienne, equal to dramatic moments and delightful in her bits of humor.

She portrays the character of a high-cious, with the depths of her real womanliness unstirred. The story has been written for the screen and is filled with amusing complications and tense action.

Beatrix Vanderdyke, child of rich parents among the socially elect, is pronounced one of the most successful debutantes of the season.

Beatrix becomes interested in Sutherland Yorke, whose portraits of society women bring him in a comfortable income, and, more enamored of his wicked reputation than of himself, enters into a flirtation. She recklessly visits his studio at night, but at Yorke's first mis-step leaves him in icy anger. Her visits to the artist's apartment become known to the family, who determine to send her west out of harm's way. In order to avert the sentence of exile, Beatrix, on the spur of the moment, declares herself secretly married to Pelham Franklin, a wealthy young eligible of her set, whose apartment is directly across the corridor from Yorke's, and explains that she was in Franklin's rooms, not Yorke's.

Franklin is more or less the caveman type and he determines to give Beatrix the scare of her life.

How the tangle is finally smoothed out, scandal laid and happiness won, makes up a play in which Miss Talmadge appears at her best

Hart Has Fine Part In Latest Release, At Forsyth Theater

William S. Hart has probably never been seen at better advantage than in the role of "Silent Bud Marr," leading character in "The Silent Man," whic is appearing at the Forsyth theater all this week, and he has the advantage of being supported by a most charming little woman in Viola Vale as Betty Bryce, his sweetheart.

There are thrills galore in this offering, probably the greatest coming as the finale of the courtroom scene, when, with his enemy escaping from his grasp, Hart plunges, head foremost through a window, lands on his side, scrambles up and lassoes his foe as he tries to escape arrest on a wildly galloping horse.

Then Hart mounts his own horse and drags the villain through the dust of the street back to the courthouse, where he turns him over to the federal marshal.

The story is based around the efforts of a bunch of crooks to steal from Hart a mine which he had located after years of vain search, and his own struggle to defeat them in their aims. In the end, of course, he triumphs, but there are tribulations galore before this result is gained.

WITH the sleeves of your shirt well down over the hands and the band bulging from under the collar, is to say the least, disconcerting, but to change the following day only to find one that is too tight in the neck, the sleeves too short, and miserable in other respects is certainly exasperating. If we make your shirts these little episodes which take place before the looking glass every morning will be entirely avoided.

Actresses Go Free After Girl Shows Dance to Recorder

It Was a "Naughty Little Wiggle," According to Assistant Chief Jett, So Judge Johnson Orders Demonstration.

It was a "naughty little wiggle" in a dance by the leading lady that brought eleven young actresses from the Columbia theater, the manager of the house and the manager of the company before Recorder Johnson yesterday afternoon, or at least it was a "naughty little wiggle" in the opinion of Assistant Chief Jett, who led the raiding party.

When the case was called and the girls—most of them were red-headed—marched, and pranced, and minced, and two-stepped themselves up before the judges' stand, the entire crowd seemed to move in the court room and charge for the front seats.

Upon the suggestion of some interested onlooker, Harvey Hill, the attorney for the defense, called upon the leading lady to show the judge a sample of the dance which he stated was called "Balling the Jack." The evidence disappointed Chief Jett, and he interrupted proceedings to cry out: "Oh, your honor, she had tights Saturday night."

"Haven't you ever seen a woman in tights," questioned Mr. Hill.

"Yes, sir," answered the chief, "but they never did th[illegible]ggle."

Recorder Johnson dismissed the cases against the girls, fined Charles Brewer and Boone Kelly $50 each, then reduced the amount to $25 each, and ordered the wiggle cut out.

Board members henceforth will not receive $4 a day for their work, but will get $1 an hour for time actually put in by them, not exceeding $7.50 a day, or $150 a month. The clerk of the board is to keep check on the time each board member works.

$2,500 RAISED SUNDAY FOR REVIVAL EXPENSES

The collections Sunday were the largest that have yet been contributed during the Sunday campaign, the total amounting to something more than $2,500. This, it is understood, leaves $10,000 or less yet to be raised before the campaign expenses are paid. This sum was raised after appeals by Dr. Dunbar Ogden, Major R. J. Guinn and John J. Eagan, at the morning, afternoon and night services, respectively.

It was also stated Monday that the contributions of the negroes Saturday night was the largest Saturday night offering which has yet been received at the tabernacle, the total being $300 or more. Saturday night meetings prior to the last one have been for white people.

Atlanta Women to Support Red Cross Theater Benefits

Atlanta women representing the various organizations, social and otherwise, will back the Atlanta Red Cross theatrical benefits, which will be given here Friday morning at 10:30 in the Lyric and in the Grand. This was decided at a meeting held yesterday morning at Red Cross house, 258 Peachtree.

Mrs. Bolling Jones, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Atlanta chapter of the National Red Cross society, has been appointed by the head of the local chapter, Lee Ashcraft, as head of the committee to plan for the success of the Red Cross benefits.

She will be assisted by her permanent committee of ten members; by Mrs. Preston Arkwright, chairman of the 100 Red Cross auxiliaries in Atlanta, and by Mrs. James D. Robinson, chairman of the Atlanta hospitality committee.

The Debutantes club of Atlanta, of which Miss Marion Stearnes is chairman, will act as ushers, six of them to be at the Lyric and six at the Grand.

Added to the regular program of the two playhouses Friday morning will be a special program of military music in which regimental band music will be a feature, and many of the soldiers at Camp Gordon who are musical will contribute their talents to the occasion.

An effort was made by Mrs. Bolling Jones, Mrs. Robinson and others to have the hour of the benefit changed from 10:30 in the morning to 4 in the afternoon, and telegrams were sent asking the national board to make the change.

The response was that the National Board of the Red Cross and the leaders of the theatrical men interested had agreed upon the morning hour, and at 10:30 on Friday morning every vaudeville management in the country will present their special Red Cross benefits at that hour.

"It may be a little unusual for the theatergoer to patronize even the best show in the morning," stated Mrs. Jones in discussing the hour Monday, but when it is remembered that the program will be an especially good one, and that every cent of the proceeds will go to the work of the Red Cross, upon which the whole world is making demands for help at the present moment, I believe all patriotic Atlanta people will find it possible to patronize either the Grand or the Lyric Friday morning."

GEORGIA WILL GET SALT.

Dr. Soule Arranging to Secure Supply of Cars.

Dr. A. M. Soule, federal food administrator for Georgia, Monday received word from Washington that arrangements are being made whereby it is hoped that cars will shortly be available for moving salt into Georgia.

It was recently discovered that because salt had not been placed on the necessity list for moving freight, a shortage was about to result in Georgia. Dr. Soule took the matter up with Washington and asked for the release of sufficient cars to bring the salt to Georgia.

There are about fourteen train loads of salt under order for Georgia merchants at the following Georgia cities: By Cairo, two cars; Savannah, one car; Macon, 222 cars; Cedartown, one car; Waycross, three cars; Cordele, four cars; Cartersville three cars; Gainesville, one car; Atlanta, two cars; Americus, one car; Augusta, forty-seven cars; Columbus, six cars; Thomasville, two cars; Bainbridge, seven cars; Quitman, two cars; Athens, thirty-three cars; Valdosta, twenty-four cars, making a total of 351 cars.

In addition to the full car-lot orders listed above, there are a number of orders booked for amounts varying from 1,000 to 1,500 sacks.

AMERICUS RED LIGHT WILL PROBABLY CLOSE

Americus, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—In Sumter superior court this week there are set for trial cases against three Americus women, all charged with keeping lewd houses, and it is currently reported that with their hearing the restricted district of Americus will be closed forever. The women are Lois Reeves, Frankie Stannard and Leona Lee, the former, however, having left the city some time ago, after having given bond for her appearance. It is usual for such cases to be transferred to the docket for the city court of Americus, but, it is stated, this course was not followed at the instance of Judge Z. A. Littlejohn, who directed that the indictments be heard before the higher court.

Sheriff Catches Two.

Gainesville, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—Two young white men who refuse to give their names are in Hall county jail in connection with the robbery of the Palmour Hardware company's store on the night of November 19. They were arrested by Sheriff Holcomb, of Stephens county, and brought here Saturday afternoon by Sheriff Crow. Sheriff Crow returned this morning from Atlanta, after an unsuccessful attempt to capture an accomplice whom the men implicated. The men confess to having received the stolen goods in a freight car near the store. About $400 worth of knives, guns and ammunition was secured. When captured the men had a number of knives, pistols and other articles of hardware about them.

Will Travel by Taxi.

Rome, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—Beginning tomorrow, the people of Cave Spring will be practically cut off from Rome as far as transportation by railroad is concerned. The recent decision of the Georgia railroad commission which allowed the Southern railway to discontinue its train between the two points, will greatly affect the travel from Cave Spring. For the past two years taxicab lines have plied between Rome and Cave Spring, and the manager of the concern operating them has purchased three additional autos.

BIG BROTHER DINNER TO BE GIVEN TODAY BY THE ROTARIANS

Atlanta Rotarians will give their annual Big Brother dinner at the chamber of commerce at noon today. Atlanta working boys have come to look forward to this annual event with as much delight as they await the coming of Christmas. No Rotarian will be admitted unless he is accompanied by one or more boys who work for a living.

In addition to everything the Big Brothers can think of to satisfy a hungry boy's appetite, they have secured vaudeville artists from the Lyric, and Brewster and Rodeheaver from the Sunday organization, who will entertain them. Each boy will be given a souvenir of the occasion.

The Big Brother dinner is an annual affair which has been given by the Rotarians for several years, and many acquaintances formed at these dinners have proved of mutual benefit.

Valdosta Auto Dealer Would Like to Hear From His Customer

Valdosta, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—Police and county officials throughout this section are out today looking for a man going under the name of J. L. Wright, whom it is alleged swindled C. B. Salter, a Valdosta automobile dealer, out of a new Chevrolet car. Wright came to Valdosta on November 28 and deposited in one of the banks a draft for $16,341.00, and was given a passbook with the amount of the draft duly entered. On the same afternoon he bought a Chevrolet car, giving a check for $385 on the Valdosta bank. During his conversation with the automobile man Wright remarked that he had sold his property in Florida and was on his way to Adel to go into the live stock business. He mentioned that he had made a deposit and exhibited his pass book. Mr. Salter did not question the man's statements or suspect anything wrong.

When the check was presented at the bank next day payment was refused pending advice from the $16,000 draft. Today the draft came back with the notation that no such man was known at Tallahassee, Fla., and that no party by that name had a deposit in any bank there. Descriptions of Wright are being sent out, accompanied by an offer of a reward for his arrest, but so far no trace of him has been found. He is said to look, act and dress like a farmer in good circumstances and impressed those he came in contact here with his honesty and sincerity.

RAIN EXPECTED TODAY, ASSERTS FORECASTER

Atlanta and northern Georgia are due to get some precipitation today, and the mercury is going to slide down the tube a bit at the same time, although it is not going to do anything violent, according to Forecaster von Herrmann.

Unsettled and generally cloudy weather prevails over most of the country. Nevertheless, very little rain has fallen, only a few widely separated places reporting very small amounts.

The atmospheric pressue is high over the east gulf states, and low over the upper Ohio valley. In the west and northwest the pressure distribution is very irregular and indistinct. While it is very cold in the extreme northern United States, it is still warm in the cotton belt.

Preparations Made For Great Meeting By Presbyterians

Executive Secrstary C. Groshon Gunn, of the war work council of the Presbyterian church, spent Monday in Atlanta attending a conference with the ministers here. Preparations were made for the big meeeting which will be held in Atlanta on December 11, for the pushing of the campaign for $100,000 war work funds for work amongst the soldiers outside of the camps.

One detail arranged Monday was that a mass meeting will be held in the Central Presbyterian church on Monday night, December 10, previous to the convention on the following day. This meeting is for the general public, and the speakers will explain the objects of the campaign and the purposes to which the funds are to be put. It was thought better to hold the meeting on Monday night, as that is the one night of the week when there is no service at the Billy Sunday tabernacle.

Many well-known speakers are on the program, including Rev. James I. Vance, D. D., of Nashville, Tenn., chairman of the war work council; Rev. R. S. McCaslin, D. D., of Montgomery, and Rev. John M. Wells, D. D., moderator of the Presbyterian church in the United States.

Play Safe! Prevent serious illness by promptly administering Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey.

Prompt use of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey does more than break up your cough. It may be the "ounce of prevention" that saves you dangerous sickness. Doctors declare the common cold one of the serious diseases, with results like pneumonia and tuberculosis which cause a large portion of human mortality.

For years Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey has been remarkably successful with coughs, colds, grippe, croup and throat, chest or bronchial troubles. Time has proved its healing balsams will soothe and relieve irritation, breathing will be easier, while its antiseptic properties kill the germs which caused infection and are retarding recovery. Children like it.

That "putting off treatment" is dangerous. At the first sign of a cough start taking Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey.

HUSBAND'S FRIEND GAVE BEST ADVICE

He Recommended Tanlac. She Gained 22 Pounds, and Eighteen Years of Suffering Is Ended.

"I only weighed ninety pounds and had suffered for eighteen years, when I started taking Tanlac, and here I am well again and weighing one hundred and twelve pounds," said Mrs. J. W. Binkley, wife of a well-known carpenter, residing at 3104 Illinois avenue, Nashville, Tennessee, some time ago.

"It would be mighty hard to describe my sufferings for the last eighteen years," she continued. "I had to live on the very lightest foods. Even milk would sour on my stomach and form gas that would keep me in misery for hours. I had no strength left hardly and although I tried the best treatments I could find, I kept going down hill and suffering agonies until I was finally told I would have to be operated on, and even then there wasn't much hope.

"A good friend of my husband persuaded him to get a bottle for me, and it was the very best of advice, and I've taken eight bottles so far. Well, it not only saved me from the operating table, but I went up from ninety pounds to a hundred and twelve—a gain of twenty-two pounds—and I can eat country ham and onions or anything else I want without any trouble afterwards and I am feeling just fine. I want everybody to know what Tanlac did for me."

Tanlac is sold in Atlanta by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co.—(adv.)

If so, get a 25c bottle of Cheney's Expectorant and take as directed on bottle. It will quickly soothe the lining of your throat, and make you feel easy and stop that hacking cough and cold and even cure the first symptoms of consumption. How to Relieve a Baby's Cold

The best plan is to use a very mild salve containing the correct proportions of the soothing, cleansing and antiseptic oils of Eucalyptus, Wintergreen, Menthol and Pinus Sylvestris, with Camphor and refined petrolatum. All the drug stores now sell this mild salve under the name of Eucapine Salve. It is especially prepared for the mother's use with her children and sells for twenty-five cents for a large family jar.

The little tots enjoy Eucapine Salve and soon learn to call for it by name and doctor themselves when they feel irritation of the nose and throat. They consider it fun and it keeps their noses and throats comfortable, clean, sanitary and free from secretions and germs. Your regular drug store will supply you with Eucapine Salve, or it will be mailed postpaid to any address for twenty-five cents by the Eucapine Chemical Company, Atlanta, Ga., Distributors for the South.—(adv.)

Alderman J. H. Ewing Named Atlanta Food Administrator

Prominent Business Man Will Have Charge of Food Control Regulations in This City and in Fulton County.

Announcement was made by Executive Secretary D. F. McClatchey last night of the appointment by Dr. Andrew M. Soule, federal food administrator for Georgia, of Jones Ewing, alderman from the eighth ward, as food administrator for the city of Atlanta and Fulton county.

Mr. Ewing's appointment is effective at once, and he takes charge this morning of food control regulations in this county. He will devote a considerable part of his time to the duties of the office, and is serving during the period of the war as a patriotic volunteer in co-operation with the government.

His authority in Atlanta and Fulton county will be the same authority conferred upon Dr. Soule in respect to the operation of the food control regulations in the state, and all government licenses as well as all local complaints within Fulton county will come directly under Mr. Ewing's jurisdiction.

The state administration office considers itself peculiarly fortunate in having the services of Mr. Ewing in this capacity in the state's most important center. He had been prominently identified with civic matters here for a number of years, and is one of the city's most prominent business men.

Mr. Ewing, in assuming the duties, asks the co-operation of the business enterprises and the individual families in his territory.

BILLY SUNDAY PARTY AT THE BERRY SCHOOL

SUNDAY SPENDS MONDAY RESTING AT HIS HOME

Billy Sunday spent his Monday holiday resting out at the High home on Peachtree street, under the care of a physician. The preacher was greatly exhausted and suffering severely from his strenuous work Sunday and several preceding days, during which he carried on his work under the difficulty of tremendous hoarseness and sore throat.

It was stated Monday night that his condition is considerably improved, however, and he will probably be in something like his old form when he preaches Tuesday afternoon.

WHAT BILLY SUNDAY SAYS

In one of his meetings at Boston the noted evangelist said, "I believe that every disease can be cured by some weed if we can only discover it. There is not an ailment that God hasn't somewhere an herb growing that will cure that ailment."

The choice medicinal herbs which will cure women's ailments were discovered more than forty years ago, and have been doing their beneficent work for half a century. Lydia E. Pinkham combined them in convenient form in her famous Vegetable Compound, which is to be found in the drug stores where every ailing woman may conveniently get it at small cost. It does the work!—(adv.)

Censuring the divorce laws of Georgia and asserting that changes were necessary, Judge W. D. Ellis, of the Fulton superior court, yesterday called attention to the congested divorce docket and attacked the statutes governing the granting of decrees.

Walker on grounds of cruel treatment and habitual intoxication; Mrs. Gertrude L. Harris received a first verdict against John P. Harris; Mrs. Emma Brown, a total divorce from E. J. HOOVER EXPECTS CORN TO CUT COST OF LIVING

He Says Effect of the Bumper Crop Will Be Felt by January 15.

New York, December 3.—Lower prices in meat, milk and other commodities as a result of the enormous crop of corn which it is expected will be distributed throughout the country by January 15, was forecast by Federal Food Administrator Hoover in a statement tonight. He declared that this extraordinary crop is "the certain economic remedy for high prices."

Mr. Hoover attended several conferences here today at which the food situation was discussed with federal and state officials. Plans to appoint food administrators in every city and county of New York state were formulated at one of these meetings.

Mr. Hoover's statement said:

"The real fundamental and economic relief is the coming of the corn crop, the greatest crop we have known in many years. It now is practically four weeks behind time, due to many causes. I expect that by January 15 this great crop will have been started on the way to the consumers through the various channels.

"This crop is not only plentiful but will be sold at a reasonable price. The cost of corn is dropping every day. In proportion to the cheapness of corn to the farmers we shall have reflected lower prices of such commodities as milk and meat. One of the delays in the movement of the corn crop has been the shortage of cars.

"Corn is really one-half of our food and this extraordinary crop of approximately three and a quarter billion bushels is the certain economic remedy for high prices."

As to the regulation of prices of all commodities by the government, Mr. Hoover said that either prices must be regulated or there must be a continuous wage increase, and added:

"In other words, wages must ascend according to the prices of the necessities of life. I mean that the high cost of living must stop, or we must have a continuous ascending wage scale. A continuous increase in wages undermines national efficiency and of the two evils it is evident that we must make an effort to regulate the prices."

MILLIONS OF SHEEP FOR SOUTHERN STATES

Western Sheepmen to Seek Grazing Lands in This Section.

Salt Lake City, December 3.—A committee representing western sheep men left for New Orleans this afternoon to inquire into the possibilities of moving millions of sheep from western states to southern states. The committee will submit a report to the National Wool Growers' association's convention here next month.

Dr. S. W. McClure, secretary of the association, said that the passage of the homestead act was crowding the sheep men out of the western states and that grazing lands would have to be found in the south or elsewhere.

Housewives Now More Than Ever Before Realize the Importance of Purity in Food Products

While on my lecture tours, meeting housewives in all sections of the country—I have observed that women are now wide awake to the vital necessity of utmost purity in articles of food.

It used to be that unscrupulous manufacturers were at liberty to foist rankly adulterated food stuffs on the unsuspecting housewife. This production of low grade, frequently worthless and often injurious merchandise gained such strides that the government stepped in with Pure Food legislation and checked it. This measure of protection aroused housewives to the situation and the importance of purity in articles of table use. And as a result of this awakening wise housewives have set a higher standard of purity than the Food Laws demand. The federal and state authorities have cut off to a great extent the manufacturer of products of an injurious nature. The great majority of housewives have gone even farther—and insist on absolute purity.

Take Baking Powder for example. There are many different brands of baking powders on the market. All that are on the market are made within the limits of the law—are as pure as the law demands.

But there are other things to be taken into consideration—will they give the best results—are they economical in use?

The housewife now insists that baking powder be as pure as it can be made. That it possess no impurities—no adulterants—no useless fillers—no injurious properties of any sort. They want—and are entitled to—a baking powder so proportioned and blended it remains pure in the baking.

After testing many different brands of baking powders, I am thoroughly convinced that Calumet Baking Powder extends far beyond the standards of purity demanded by the food laws.

Critical experiments establish the fact that Calumet leaves no harmful residue, as do many powders that comply with pure food requirements. The bakings it produces are not only light, fluffy and tasty—but wholesome and healthful—which really is the final test of a baking powder's purity.

The housewife of today wants something better than "just as good." She wants the best, and in my articles on Baking Powder I have no hesitancy in recommending Calumet

TIME TO ACT!

It is high time for Fulton county to take steps toward repaving its portion of the highway between the city limits of Atlanta and Camp Gordon.

The thoroughfare from the heart of the city to the city limits is in passable condition. That part of Peachtree which has recently been paved by the county is in prime order and will, no doubt, remain so for years.

The government has let a contract for the paving of Peachtree road from the Fulton-DeKalb boundary line and the main entrance to Camp Gordon, and of Candler road from its confluence with Peachtree road to the south entrance to the cantonment. This work is to be pushed to completion, and when done it will provide excellent highway facilities between the county line and the camp.

But that portion of the highway between the city limits of Atlanta and the county line is in an unutterably bad condition, and if not attended to it will be well nigh impassable before the winter ends.

It is the duty of the Fulton county board of commissioners at its meeting tomorrow to get down to business and initiate steps looking to the paving of that stretch of Peachtree road.

It should ask for bids for that work without further delay!

There is many, many times more traffic in a day over this road than over any other stretch of highway in the county.

But the work of repairing has been delayed from day to day and week to week for one reason or another, one being that the commissioners have thought that the government might be induced to stand part of the expense.

But it is not likely that the federal government will pave a road for a county as abundantly able to do the work as is Fulton county. With DeKalb county, conditions are different. DeKalb is a rural county having no large city and with no surplus cash. Fulton is one of the richest counties in the state. It does not require federal aid in a matter of this kind, and if it does expect it, it is quite likely to meet with disappointment.

There is no valid reason why a contract for this improvement should not be let immediately, so that the work can be completed concurrently with that portion of the same highway lying in DeKalb county, making a through well-paved highway from the center of Atlanta to Camp Gordon.

It is up to the county commissioners to act tomorrow.

The people are not asking the cost of the job, and they are ready and willing to approve any reasonable paving contract.

But they are not willing to approve any further delay.

OHIO'S FIGHT WITH J. B.

It has been settled that Ohio in 1918 will again try conclusions with John Barleycorn. Furthermore, the general consensus of opinion throughout the state is that this time prohibition will win.

It is true, too, that in the minds of most Ohioans—wet as well as dry—there is a deep-seated conviction that only the juggling of returns in about three of the state's biggest cities saved J. B. from a knock-out at the election just held and which resulted in a wet majority of only 1,137 after days of suspense and delay in the filing of returns. In fact, prosecutions for election irregularities are pending there, and it may be that a recount will be ordered.

For several years the Buckeye state has been a storm center of liquor controversy. In no other state have the prohibitionists waged a more determined battle, nor against such overwhelming odds as they faced in the beginning of it. Year after year they have fought, and the question has been voted upon, either directly or indirectly, at every general election during the last decade or more.

Some years ago the drys succeeded in getting a local option bill enacted into law, since which time a considerable portion of the state has been saloonless; but the larger cities, notably Cincinnati—the greatest distillery city in the world—have not only remained wet, but have been able to keep the state as a whole out of the dry column.

But the prohibitionists in Ohio have John Barleycorn groggy.

In the election of 1915 he was hit an awful wallop, but was saved by the liquor cities by a majority of 55,412, and now in the election of November, 1917, that majority was cut to one of a little more than a thousand—granting that those were honestly-counted votes, which is not generally believed to be the case.

The prohibitionists are greatly encouraged, and they are determined to give Demon Rum no opportunity for recuperation, and they confidently expect to wind up its career, so far as Ohio is concerned, a year hence.

As for the Ohio politicians, 1918 is going to be a trying year for them, because it will be a general election year. As a general rule they have been able to keep the whisky issue out of partisan politics; but they will have a hard time doing this in 1918. Each aspirant to office, regardless of the nature of the job sought, will have to "line up" with one side or the other on the liquor question and tell the people where he stands. There will be no chance to dodge.

This, it is generally conceded, augurs well for the anti-liquor forces, because the rank and file of Ohioans are at heart "dry" and probably would make it decidedly unpleasant for a candidate for any office who would dare to say publicly that he is "wet."

Unquestionably the members of all parties in Ohio will experience a great sense of relief when the booze thorn is finally removed from the political flesh of the state; which, from all indications, it will be a year from now, by popular vote—if not before by congressional enactment!

GEORGIA'S Y. M. C. A. RESPONSE.

Georgia is $23,000 short in its response to the call for $350,000 as the state's apportionment of the thirty-five million dollars asked from the country at large.

When the great work being done in the war camps by the Y. M. C. A. is given a moment's consideration by the people of Georgia they will not hesitate to raise the slight amount necessary to complete Georgia's part of this fund, and their response will be speedy when they know that of all the states in the union Georgia is perhaps the only one which has not yet come up to its allotment.

And the rapidity of the state's response will be enhanced with the realization that 15 per cent of the army of the United States is now in the six military camps located in Georgia—more than in any state—and with the knowledge that up to November 1 the Y. M. C. A. has already spent in this war work in the Georgia camps $391,000, and that $400,000 additional is already appropriated for expenditure in and for the Georgia camps from November 1, 1917, to July 1, 1918.

Georgia's $23,000 shortage will, of course, be subscribed between now and next Saturday night, when the campaign closes.

Indeed, it is perhaps not accurate to say that as yet the state is short in its response, for a few days remain in which there is ample time not only to reach but to exceed the state's allotment.

Quite a number of Georgia towns have not made any response and others are far below the quota set for them.

Other cities and towns have not only met but far exceeded their quota.

Surely, surely, no town in Georgia will fail to respond to the full measure of its obligation to a humanitarian call which means so much for the care and the comfort of the boys who are offering to sacrifice their lives on the altar of their country's cause.

Of course Georgia is going to contribute her full quota! Of course Georgia will not be the only state in the union to fail to meet its allotment!

Every other state has wiped its slate clean and Georgia will do so between now and Saturday night.

So let every city which has not responded to the call do so at once, and let those which have responded only in part complete their subscriptions.

This is a roll of honor on which Georgia must take its proper place. For it to do otherwise will be to subject the state to undeserved humiliation.

Official Yell of "Spareribs."

The exchange column man of The Arkansas Gazette says to a correspondent:

"Our heart is full of poetry and our soul is full of art, but in spite of these things we do better when our stomach is full of victuals. The Gazette may adopt the chrysanthemum as its flower, but so far as this column is concerned, the country ham is the official flower, country sausage the official song and spareribs the official yell."

"Taking wood on subscription was once a matter for merriment with the funny fellows," writes a Georgia editor, "but, believe us, times have changed! The price of coal has given dignity to cord-wood, and for the benefit of the shivering jokesters we would state that we have been enabled to open a woodyard, where they can keep warm at reasonable rates, if they are willing to tote or haul the wood away. While they were laughing, we watched the woodpile, and we are now president and chief director of the same. Our motto has always been: 'Keep up the Fire!'"

LIFTING THE TEUTONIC VEIL: ENEMY NEWS AND OPINION

Under this heading will be published from time to time quotations from the press of Germany and Austria-Hungary which The Constitution has arranged to receive by cable and mail through The Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Since the return to Germany of many German residents of America, a general understanding of America's war intentions has begun to percolate through the German press. Nevertheless, it is remarkable to find in the conservative Kreuzzeitung, pet organ of the East Prussian junkers, the following unvarnished statements reported by a man well informed in American affairs.

America Really Warlike.

"From time to time American newspaper accounts refer to increasing peace inclinations in the United States. It is to be assumed that in a nation of 109,000,000 there are many who are peaceably inclined, but we warn against a too roseate view. Such optimistic expectations are as disappointing as those of the war in connection with the expected turn of public opinion in favor of Germany, which in reality existed only in the imagination of German newspaper correspondents. Anybody following the trend of affairs in the United States is no longer in doubt but what the number of war enthusiasts in America is constantly growing. This was recently demonstrated by the labor organizations, which are to a greater extent determined for the war than their English brethren assembled at the recent British trade Union Congress at Blackwood.

"There the delegate of the American Federation of Labor, B. Lord, declared that he would not think of sitting at a table with representatives of the central powers as long as 'that German beast' remains in Belgium and France. Another delegate, named Golden, accused the German labor leaders as either sympathizing with the cruelties perpetrated or being moral cowards. Just as belligerent is Bryan, Wilson's former secretary of state, who says in his Commoner: 'America is now bound to win, for she could not permit a foreign power, Germany least of all, to interfere with America's destinies.' He says further: 'It does not matter how long the war may last; differences of opinion can only prolong it, while at the same time the sacrifices in money and human lives grow greater.'

Quotes Bryan.

"Who would have ever thought to hear that of Mr. Bryan? This is the same Bryan who threw his job at the president's feet for fear that Wilson's energetic attitude toward Germany might lead to war. At that time Roosevelt was also against Wilson, regarding him as acting in a cowardly way. Now, Roosevelt and Bryan blow one and the same horn. Wilson combats, in words, German militarism; virtually he imitates it. He would have the American army large enough—if it need be—to attain victories on the battlefields of Europe all by itself or at least prove to be the decisive element."

Wilson accommodated the English by permitting them to recruit their countrymen in America. It was asserted that this turned out "an extraordinary success," but as figures were not stated, the truth could not be proven.

Shipment of United States Troops.

"What worries the president most in connection with his plans is how to transport the alleged million of soldiers across the ocean. The industrial press figures that for 1,000 men 5,000 gross tons of ship space are needed. It is further assumed that a single trip requires four weeks on the average. Seven hundred and fifty thousand gross tons of ship space would thus be required.

"In this connection two other points should be considered.

"The submarine boats are not likely to permit one or even a half million of Americans to cross the ocean without attacking and further it is not alone a question of sending men across the ocean, but also of supplying them with foodstuffs, armaments, aircraft and other things necessary in warfare. This will require still more ship space.

"This is a performance which even the United States cannot carry out, and the idea of an American giant army in Europe appears to be a mere dream. The outcome of this experiment, however, is of great importance to the popularity and the influence of President Wilson. The Americans feel convinced they are the first nation of the world and so much above other nations that they will blame it on their government should the United States fail in this fight.

"When the deterioration of the Russian army caused depression in America's political circles, this must have set the president thinking. No wonder Secretary of State Lansing attempted to screen these events by the statement that the American government by no means fears a collapse of Russia, regarding to the contrary, Russia stronger than ever. This is not only exaggeration, but plain deception, showing that as far as Europeans affairs are concerned Americans are as ignorant as an Eskimo on theatrical matters."

After quoting The London Observer, the article concludes by saying:

Yankee Inconstancy.

"Anybody knowing America and the Americans will attach no significance to such statements, because he knows that there are none more inconstant than yankees. Thus it was during the war. The Americans were anti-German, but in this a great majority bent upon peace. They re-elected Wilson because he favored 'peace and prosperity.' After six months this picture changed, and America entered the war. It may also be said that the Germans were not always so much hated as they are today. Formerly at every possible occasion, public or private, the American hatred of the 'English was noticeable."

LITTLE LOCALS ABOUT THINGS OF CITY INTEREST

A coroner's jury after holding an inquest yesterday over the body of Will Mitchell, the negro who was shot and killed by Policeman Will McKinney following a raid on a crap game Sunday night, returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

R. E. Minor, of 43 Hopkins street, Decatur, was relieved of a pocketbook containing $35 by pickpockets on a North Decatur street car yesterday afternoon about 5:20 o'clock. Mr. Minor boarded the car at Edgewood and Fryor at a time a crowd was pushing its way on. After arriving at his home he recalled that he was severely jostled by two men, who also boarded the car there. He is of the opinion these men secured his money, and he also believes that he can identify them.

As a result of raids by Deputies Montgomery, Godfrey, Causey, Chase, Lay and Rothstein in Quitman, Marion, Washington, Rabun, Habersham, Dawson, McDuffie and Hancock counties, thirteen stills have been destroyed and 15,000 gallons of beer and spirits seized. Warrants have been issued for ten men known to the deputies, but no arrests have yet been made.

Clifford Ford, a negro, who was arrested by Officer Chaffin on Decatur street early Monday morning charged with making a deal with some soldiers to get them some whisky, yesterday was fined $25 by Recorder Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Damon, wanted in Atlanta on charge of issuing bad checks, will be prosecuted at Boston by federal authorities on the charge of having made fraudulent use of the mails, it was announced yesterday. The couple was arrested Thursday at Burlington, Vt., as the result of the search instituted by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. The woman, it is claimed, represented herself as agent for a fruit concern, and succeeded in securing $400 in cash for a bogus check. Mr. and Mrs. Damon also are charged with a similar offense in Columbia, S. C.

Paul T. Logan left Atlanta last night for Charleston, S. C., to report for duty in the naval service, where he will join his two brothers, J. A. and T. S. Logan, who are now stationed at that point.

J. S. Sewell, inspector of weights and measures, has signified his intention to resign to Mayor Candler. He will give the mayor time to find a successor. Mr. Sewell has accepted a commercial position. The office pay $100 a month.

Resolutions of regret on the death of Marcellus M. Anderson, clerk of the municipal court and a member of practically every secret order in the city, who died November 21, were passed at a recent meeting of Post B, of the Travelers' Protective Association of Atlanta. Embodied in the resolutions was the expression that "We commend for the consideration of his family and friends the emulation of his life and character as the best way to express our most intense admiration for the beautiful example that he has left in so many ways for our guidance through the ever-shifting and ever-changing scenes of life."

Some Sidelights On the Great War

Meeting Labor Half-Way

BY GILBERT SELDES.

London.—The real change in the labor situation in Great Britain is not to be found in the changed status of organized labor, now recognized as a power by the government, nor in the desperate efforts made by labor's enemies to convict it of revolutionary tendencies. Far more significant is the fact that the representatives of capital and the representatives of the state are marching down the road bearing olive branches and orange blossoms to the halfway house where labor is temporarily resting.

The olive branch is for peace and the blossoms are for the holy state of matrimony. The state, as high priest, is willing to officiate at the ceremony which will link labor and capital together and captital is willing. Labor is doubtful; labor hesitates; labor dickers for a dowry in its own name; labor jibs at the halter and refuses to recognize the permanence of the new contract. That is the inner truth of the situation.

What labor is reluctant to accept is simply the permanence of the wage-system, and all the concessions which capital is making are details, leaving intact the wage principle—that is, the principle that some men shall be paid wages while other men get their shares as profit. Labor, as such, has put forth no substitute; neither has it accepted the alternative schemes proposed by the socialists (state control), by the syndicateists (industrial control and competition) or by the Guildsmen (syndicates and state working together). Labor is still fighting for better wages, but it has, so far, refused to pledge itself to any system which offers better wages alone; on the other hand it has not yet accepted anything else. The condition in the labor ranks is chaotic, and, as is usually the case with chaos, anything may come out of it.

The way to discover what may come out is to note the progressive concessions made by the employers of labor. Beginning with shorter hours, better pay, cleaner factories and the like, the concessions very soon began to show a decided and an entirely new tendency; toward dividing the control of the shop with the workers in the shop. The next step—jump, rather—is the division of control of an industry between the employers and the employees. Joint control, with or without a state representative as an interested third party, is an accepted system of operating war factories, and is a recognized basis for reconstruction in industry. Representatives of the textile workers, of the owners of factories making woolen goods and state deputies have settled all the questions of wool control in the past two years, and the questions were such as cut to the heart of the industry. The vital new element here is that the dual control was not in a single factory, but extended to an entire and extensive industry.

After the War Troubles.

This is a practical instance of the theoretical desire, so often expressed as to sound foolish, for a rapprochment between capital and labor. The disaffected and the "advanced" workers sniff audibly when they hear an expert on reconstruction in England say that "we must avoid industrial disputes after the war." The pious hope means little to them; some of them insist that the only way to make the war a real war for freedom is to push strikes and lockouts to the extreme after the war. But the bulk of the workers are willing to send their representatives to sit on boards where capital is also represented.

At the same time another tendency is visible—one that cuts across trade unions and may lead to the establishment of unions on the syndicalist style. Labor leaders, students with a bias in favor of state action and employers are all realizing, to an extent, that the strength of an industry is ruined if the industry is unionized by units—that is if trainmen, engineers, conductors, firemen and brakemen have each a union of their own instead of being bound in an inclusive union, or syndic, or railway workers, one which holds together the aristocracy and the mob of the trade, the skilled and the unskilled, the powerful, and the weak. The labor leaders realize that no industry is stronger than its weakest union; the employers are wearied of internal squabbles and disputes about jurisdiction; the state control advocates understand that the state can deal best with a single body.

Prepare Labor for After-War Conditions.

Comprehension of this new development is indicated in a manifesto just issued, bearing the names of trade union officials, professors, business men of high standing, editors of technical and trade journals. The first desideratum mentioned is the mobilization of each industry for common action. Another is that each industry should be studied as a whole and apart from internal competition. It asks for an organization to prepare labor for after-the-war, in which all classes of persons engaged in a given industry shall be represented. It goes further and suggests that all questions between the state and a given trade should be delegated to the council of that trade.

All of these suggestions indicate the growth of the guild idea, with the difference of course, that the "national guilds" repudiate the wage system entirely and this manifesto upholds that system. The importance of the manifesto is limited to recognition of the new orientation of labor toward solidarity in each industry.

Of all the appeals made to the workers to reject the advances of capital the pure Marxian socialist appeal is the weakest in England at this time. Fabian tactics (not those of the Fabian society, however), based on the principle that "it must grow worse before it grows better," are not considered good exchange for a rapidly filling dinner pail, and the gradual assumption of state control during the war has either cut the ground from under the socialists' feet or has "soured" the workers on the whole idea. Only a partial success can be registered for state control of beer or of any of the other food commodities. The triumph of control—in raw materials used for military purposes—is still hidden from the people who benefit most of it. The socialist is on the defensive. The syndicalist is aggressive but out of tune, for he is largely pacifist; the guilds are not widely known.

Yet the astonishing fact is that without any other program, the workers are not rushing pell-mell into the arms of the capitalists. They are indulgent to new schemes; they accept reforms. But they are looking for a new status.

It is interesting to note that of those who can express the vague longings of the workers may choose to make use of President Wilson's assertion that labor is not a commodity and must not be treated as a commodity hereafter.

HEALTH TALKS

THE LAME SHOULDER.

Just as we begin to think we are getting our readers educated so they will not ask us to diagnose their ailments by mail, a new regiment of readers joins our little circle, and we have to begin all over again. But that is the great tragedy of a doctor's life, anyway. He no sooner buries his old and well trained patients than a new generation arises and makes all the same old mistakes. Today four correspondents ask for something "good for" a lame or stiff shoulder. How can we tell, without examination, whether there is a bursa inflamed, adhesions from past injury or disease, or what not?

Can't do it, children, can't do it. Haven't the necessary second sight. We can only give some general facts about the lame and stiff shoulders, and maybe some of these facts will seem to "hit your case." If so, take the fact and the case to a good doctor and let him try it on for you.

Acute sub-acromial bursitis is an inflammation of a lubricating sac just underneath the point of the shoulder, sometimes caused by slight injury or strain, sometimes by infection. Movement of the shoulder is very painful, particularly movement of the arm outward and upward. So it is held stiff, and even after the inflammation and moderate swelling have gone the stiffness may remain behind for a long time. This may lead to chronic stiff shoulder and considerable disability of the arm.

The remedy for the acute attack is rest of the arm in a sling, or sometimes by keeping the arm resting on a table or on a pillow, in the most comfortable position. As soon as the most severe inflammation has passed away, mild heat in one form or another is helpful, and massage is advisable to prevent chronic stiffness. The massage includes gentle manipulation of the shoulder and gradual lifting of the arm outward and upward.

Sometimes this condition persist for months or years, and the patient is unable to lift the arm as high as the shoulder, hence cannot feed himself or comb his hair with the affected arm. But if he will bend forward while standing, so that the arms hang limply downward, then let someone hold the affected arm in that relative position while he again assumes the erect posture, he discovers that he can lift the arm high above his head, after all. But don't let him try to lower it without help, for it will hurt like sin. This is a pretty reliable test of subacromial bursitis. The relief of the disability requires forcible breaking up of adhesions, under anesthesia, sometimes without anesthesia. When recognized and properly treated the condition usually responds promptly, though a few cases require operation on the bursa.

CHAMPION RADISH HERE.

"Chinese Rose" Is Some Vegetable, Says C. R. Allen.

C. R. Allen, of 121 Hampton street, walked into The Constitution office Monday afternoon and claimed the championship of growers of big radishes. So far his claim is undisputed.

Mr. Allen brought his radish with him. It is fourteen inches in circumference, eight inches long, weighs two pounds, is a brilliant pink and is called a Chinese Rose.

He cut a hole in it to show that it is not pithy or otherwise in bad condition. He grew the radish in his back yard.

"No, sir; it is not a turnip," said Mr. Allen.

Former High School Teacher Now Captain of Artillery

Captain W. C. Clark, Who Served as Director of Manual Training and Drawing at Savannah High School, Assigned to Fort Monroe.

After training the young idea to shoot in his capacity of director of manual training and drawing in the Savannah High school, Captain W. C. Clark ,of Covington, Ga., will shortly take up his duties as captain of coast artillery at Fortress Montroe, where he will teach the selectmen to shoot the big guns that guard Uncle Sam's coasts.

Captain Clark is one of the four Georgians who were commissioned as captains at the close of the officers' training camp at Fortress Monroe last week. He first entered the second officers' training camp at Fort Oglethorpe, but after one month's work there was transferred, along with several hundred others, to the Fort Monroe camp for the training of coast artillery officers and ordnance and signal corps officers.

Captain Clark is an honor graduate of Georgia Tech, of the class of '09, and was one of the first two men to win his "T" for tennis. He graduated in textile engineering and then was director of the Columbus Textile school at Columbus, Ga., for one year, going from there to Savannah.

Other graduates of the same training camp will be scattered along the coast defense works from Maine to Panama. They will report for duty on December 15. About sixty have been appointed to Fortress Monroe, it is understood, where they will help in the training of selectmen sent to fill up the ranks of the coast artillery forces, in order that the regulars and militia now stationed in these branches of the service may be released for service in France, where their knowledge of big guns will be of great value in the heavier artillery branches.

Montague, Wounded In France, Is Now On Way to Recovery

Lieutenant John Tyler Montague, son of F. E. Montague, of Atlanta, has been wounded in France, according to a letter recently received from him by his father.

The nature of Lieutenant Montague's injury is not known, but it was stated in his letter that he is recovering and expected to be out of the hospital Sunday, November 16.

Mr. Montague believes that his son was injured in an artillery training camp in the southern part of France and not at the battle front.

The letter from Lieutenant Montague indicated that he had dictated a previous letter home before he had sufficiently recovered to write, in which letter he told of how he was wounded. The first letter has not been received. The letter which was received stated that he did not get out of the hospital at the time he had indicated in his former letter, but that his head was better; that he was not so dizzy, and that the doctor had assured him that he would fully recover his hearing.

Lieutenant Montague was commissioned at the Fort McPherson reserve officers' training school, and was among the first to go to France. He left America in the early part of September and arrived in England September 24. From England he went to France and was assigned to an artillery training school in the southern part of France.

Lieutenant John Montague has two brothers stationed at Camp Gordon. They are First Lieutenant Allen Fairfax Montague, of the 319th field artillery, and Second Lieutenant Edgar Burwell Montague, of the 321st field artillery.

State House Officials Prove Mighty Nimrods; Give Buck to Governor

Statehouse officials who went hunting with State Game and Fish Commissioner Sam Slate at St. Catherine's island last Tuesday, were back on the job Monday, after a big time and great success.

In the party besides Commissioner Slate were H. M. Stanley, commissioner of commerce and labor; Marshall Nelms, private secretary to the governor; Albert Howell, Jr., chief of the governor's staff; Judge Frank Harwell, of the court of appeals; W. H. Davis, of Waynesboro; Sheriff Sam Story, of Wilkes county, and Mr. Wilfork, of Columbus.

They went to Savannah and from there to Darien, and thence by boat to the island.

Every member of the party killed a deer, and they also bagged five wild ducks and a wild turkey, which they had for Thanksgiving dinner.

Mr. Nelms killed the biggest buck. It weighed 100 pounds dressed and was presented by the party to Governor Dorsey.

Captain A. Oelmer, who has charge of the Georgia game preserve on the island, took the party as his guests during their stay. Others who contributed to the pleasure of the party were D. Hopkins, Dr. Cain, M. F. Boisclair and R. W. Clancy.

BIG WORLD'S CONGRESS MAY MEET IN ATLANTA

If plans of prominent local business men materialize, over 6,000 delegates to the World's Salesmanship congress will meet in Atlanta on June 16 for a five-day session. It will doubtless be the greatest gathering for the year, and while definite plans for the convention are, of course, not formed, work along this line is going forward. Atlanta, according to prominent members of the congress, ranks high as a probable site for the third annual session of the great organization.

Since its inception in July, 1916, the World's Salesmanship congress has held both its sessions in Detroit. President Woodrow Wilson traveled from Washington to Detroit to indorse the movement and deliver the inaugural address. The first session was attended by over 4,000 sales executives and business men from every state in the country. The second session, held last June, was attended by over 4,500 delegates from the 45 Salesmanship clubs established by the congress in leading cities.

STATE NEEDS $23,000 FOR Y. M. C. A. FUND

Gov. Hugh Dorsey Sends Telegraphic Appeals to 250 Georgia Cities.

Governor Hugh Dorsey issued telegraphic appeals to 250 Georgia cities to raise money for the Y. M. C. A. war work fund Monday.

Georgia is $23,000 short of her minimum allotment of $350,000, and there are scores of Georgia cities which have not given a cent to the war fund, although each of these cities probably has a dozen boys serving Uncle Sam and getting the benefit of the "Y" buildings located in every cantonment in the nation and in France.

Georgia's cities were divided into three classes—cities which failed to give their full quota, cities which have given nothing and cities which have given practically nothing. To each class he sent a telegram last night.

Governor Dorsey expects each city he has appealed to to give something to the war work fund for the Y. M. C. A.

Walter T. Forbes, one of the state executive secretaries in charge of raising Georgia's share, is in Atlanta for the special purpose of pushing the campaign to a successful conclusion.

Soldiers Took Judge At His Word, Making Good Use of Bathroom

Augusta, Ga., December 3.—(Special.) The Rotary Club of Augusta entertained enlisted men of Camp Hancock, the address being by Hon. Henry C. Hammond, judge of the superior court.

In his talk to the soldiers, he told them of his bachelor home on Greene street and assured them that the door is never locked and that they are always welcome here.

Yesterday Sergeant Corey and Sergeant Miller, of the military police, could not, because of the crowds, get into a bath at any barber shop or at the Y. M. C. A. Some one told them of Judge Hammond's invitation. They sough his home and rang. A neighbor told the soldiers that Judge Hammond was at a fishing preserve at Beech Island, S. C.

"But he said he never locked his door," suggested one of the soldiers to the other. They "tried" the door. It was open. The strangers found no one in the residence, but they found the bath tub and the hot water and all other accommodations. Later they told other soldiers the secret and report is that up to a late hour soldiers were making use of his honor's bath room. When Judge Hammond returned to the city he was the best pleased man imaginable.

5-CENT LOAF IS PASSING.

The passing of the 5-cent loaf of bread is at hand, according to Herman Malchow, president of the American Bakeries' company and chairman for Georgia of the bakers' section of the federal food administration.

After December 10, says Mr. Malchow, bread will be 10 cents a loaf, though the loaves will be approximately twice the size of the present 5-cent loaf, thus effecting no increase in the price of the bread.

The necessity for the change in price is due to the ruling of the food administration calling for a minimum loaf of 16 ounces. The present 5-cent loaf weight about 7 or 8 ounces. Through its rules the administration expects to bring about a saving of 180,000,000 pounds of sugar and 100,000,000 pounds of lard.

Rules governing the manufacture of cake have not yet been promulgated, but are expected within the next few days.

MEDICAL EXPERTS SWEAR FOR MEANS

Six Physicians Assert Mrs. King Could Have Shot Herself—Sister of Means Burned Hat Worn by Mrs. King.

Concord, N. C., December 3.—Six North Carolina physicians testified for the defense at the trial of Gaston B. Means here today that in their opinion Mrs. Maude A. King, whom Means is alleged to have killed, could have shot herself in the back of the head while holding a pistol in her hand.

Introduction of the first witnesses for the defense came after the state had unexpectedly closed its case early in the day, and the physicians followed W. G. Means and Miss Belle Means, father and sister, respectively, of the defendant, and L. A. Weddington, a local undertaker.

The state previously had announced that more New York and Chicago witnesses would be put on the stand, but at opening of court today turned instead to reading to the jury various letters and documents alleged to have been seized in Means' New York apartments.

Many of the letters, to which Means' signature was sworn to by A. B. Melville, former attorney for Mrs. King, dealt with Means' business transactions, in which the state claims he lost large sums of the woman's money, and others gave directions to his brother, Afton Means, and others about withholding Mrs. King's mail and keeping secret her trip to Concord, where she was visiting Means' relatives at the time she was killed.

The coroner's inquest at which Gaston Means testified returned a verdict of accidental death and until an investigation was started after the woman's body was taken to Chicago, it generally was the accepted belief that unintentionally she had killed herself with a small pistol, which she had been learning to shoot. Dr. William H. Burmeister, coroner's physician in Chicago, testified for the state that it would have been physically impossible for the woman to have held the pistol and inflicted in the back of her head the wound which killed her.

Believe Woman Fired Shot.

Some of the physicians testifying for the defense went so far as to say they believed the deceased did fire the fatal shot, some of them thought she could have done so accidentally, but not intentionally, while some of them refused to say whether they thought she could have shot herself intentionally in the way indicated by the evidence as to the manner in which the act was committed. Most of them described experimental tests which they had made or observed with a 25-caliber automatic pistol, the kind with which Mrs. King was killed ,according to the evidence, in firing at paper ink blotters at various distances, both directly and through a hair switch. They described the result as observed on the blotters and the hair.

Generally the physicians said the blotters showed powder grains at any distance up to fourteen inches, the grains being imbedded in the paper when fired at a distance of six inches or less, when the hair was not used. When the hair was put up against the blotters, witnesses agreed, there were no powder grains in the paper, but the hair showed the effects of the powder when the firing was done, with the muzzle of the pistol three inches or less from it. W. H. Gibson, a Concord lumberman, told of similar experiments.

The physicians admitted on cross-examination that Afton Means, brother of the defendant, was present and took part in the tests and in one or two instances counsel for the defense was present. The state demanded production in court of the blotters upon which the experiments were made, but they were not produced.

Dr. W. H. Wadsworth, one of the six medical experts, demonstrated to the jury with a pistol of the type in evidence in hand how he believed the fatal shot could have been fired, holding the automatic in reverse position, in the left hand, extended at arm's length, with the pistol pointing at the back of the head. He was given physical assistance by Frank I. Osborne, of counsel for the defense. The state's objection to his being aided was upheld and the witness was challenged to make the demonstration unassisted. He admitted that he could not know when he had the weapon in the right direction to point at his head without a mirror or assistance.

Father and Sister for Means.

Colonel Means, lawyer and father of the defendant, telling of the events on the night of the tragedy, declared Mrs. King was one of the leading spirits in getting up the party to go target shooting, and said she suggested that they take along her new pistol and "the rifle." He said she had shown enthusiasm about her progress in marksmanship.

The witness said on cross-examination that later in the night of the tragedy he was called to the telephone by a man who said he was a newspaper man at Charlotte, who told him that a coroner's inquest ought to be held. Colonel Means said he did not know the voice and the speaker did not give his name, but he now believed it was the voice of C. B. Ambrose, having since heard the latter's voice. Mr. Ambrose is an agent for the department of justice.

It was the telephone conversation, Colonel Means said, which prompted him to go that night with his son, Afton Means, and others to the scene of the shooting, where one slipper and the pistol were found.

Miss Belle Means' version of the incidents of the evening of the tragedy vere virtually the same as that of her father. She said she burned the large black hat Mrs. King had worn when killed, at the suggestion of her father on the Saturday after the death of Mrs. King. On cross-examination she answered few questions, saying generally she could not remember. When she left the stand she was led from the court room by two women attendants, her head bowed and she apparently sobbing.

Facts About the Sugar Situation

Our Government has asked you to use sugar sparingly. We believe that the people of this country will be glad to do their part to conserve the sugar supply when they know the facts.

These facts are as follows:

More than two-thirds of the source of Europe's sugar supply is within the present battle lines. This has resulted in greatly reducing the production of sugar in Europe.

England and France and other countries have been forced to go for sugar to Cuba.

Ordinarily, nearly all of the Cuban raw sugar comes to the United States and is refined here, chiefly for home use. This is not the case now.

In view of the exceptional world demand for sugar there is no surplus, and barely enough to tide us over until the new crop comes in. The people of the New England and Atlantic Coast States should use sugar sparingly. No one should hoard or waste it.

This Company has no surplus sugar to sell. It is working with the Government to conserve the supply, and to take care of the Allies so far as possible.

Do not pay an increased retail price.

Thirty-Five Leading Southern Ministers And Educators Off for France at Once To Serve Their Country and Humanity

These Men Called Upon to Go for the Entire Length of the War by the War Work Council of the Army Y. M. C. A. in Session in Atlanta Monday.

Within the week thirty-five prominent southern men, many of them from the south's leading pulpits and college faculties, will leave Atlanta for "somewhere in France," there to serve their country and humanity during the entire length of the war, if their lives are spared, under the auspices of the army Y. M. C. A. This advance delegation from the south will be followed during the month of December by thirty-five other southerners, and two hundred more will follow in January and the early spring.

The delegation that leaves at once was chosen Monday at a conference of several hundred workers who have volunteered in the "Y" work in the southeast, this conference being attended by L. T. Warner, personnel officer of the national war council, New York; his secretary, E. P. Becker, and transportation Officer H. W. Dunning, of New York, who came for the purpose of providing trans-Atlantic transportation, passports and the details incident to the moving of the men. The conference was presided over by S. A. Ackley, chairman of the southeastern division. Dr. W. W. Alexander, who is the personnel officer for the southeast, went after these men for the service subject to the final approval by the national personnel officer. The work overseas is such an important one, requiring such a degree of talent and qualifications along specific lines, in addition to the fact that the men must be beyond the conscription age, that the organization has gone out for the men it needs, and the overseas positions are therefore not open to applicants.

Among the men who are leaving this week for New York, preparatory to sailing at an early day, are:

J. O. Grogan, Camp Gordon, formerly pastor of the Centenary Methodist church, Atlanta.
Hoyt Brown, Camp Gordon.
B. A. Powell, Fayette, Mo.
Robert H. Ruff, Lexington, Miss.
Jonah L. Larrichy, Winchester, Va.
Cullen T. Carter, Helena, Ark.
William Nelson, Lowell, Mass.
H. P. Coor, Charlotte, N. C.
James Baxter Turner, Paris Island, South Carolina.
Robert Whitfield Miles, Richmond, Virginia.
Linsey Earl Williams, Manchester, Tenn.
William B. Holmes, Birmingham, Ala.
George T. Rowe, Fort McPherson, Ga.
Malone Dumas, Cuthbert, Ga.
Tipton Wood, Macon, Ga.
W. W. Edwards, Chattanooga, Tenn.
Clarence C. Beasley, Nashville, Tenn.
John Calvey Broomfield, Fairmount, W. Va.
Ernest John Houghton, Montgomery, Ala.
Charles Chamberlain McNeill, Savannah, Ga.
Ray Holmes Legote, Oxford, Miss.
Frederick Wilson West, Key West, Florida.
Charles Clinton Bell, Atlanta, Ga.
L. J. Darter, Greenwood, Miss.

Messrs. Warner and Becker left Monday night for New Orleans, where another group of southwestern men will be assembled and sent shortly to France. Mr. Dunning, the transportation official, returned to New York city.

ARMY CAMP DIRECTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The Constitution Publishes This in Response to Numerous Inquiries for Detailed Information Regarding Them.

Owing to the number of transfers being continually made from one camp to another, and the large number of friends and relatives now visiting soldiers at all of the camps since the hostess houses have been opened, The Constitution is in receipt almost daily of inquiries regarding camps, their exact location, method of reaching them, distances from nearest cities, street car transportation facilities, the branch of the service the camp represents, and so on. In order to faithfully and concisely answer all of these inquiries, and for the information of every reader who should keep this directory, The Constitution publishes below a complete and comprehensive directory of America's army camps of every description, with all of the information regarding each camp, enumerated above. Rush of Selectmen Under Farming Respites Begins and Will Continue Several Days

Two Hundred From Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama Came in Sunday and Monday, and Big Movement Is Expected to Begin Today.

Southern selectmen are now beginning to pour into Camp Gordon again.

The national army receiving station is beginning to take on new life and activity with the advent on the reservation of the first of the selectmen from three southern states, who were exempted until December 1, by district boards in order to allow them to harvest their crops or arrange their business matters preparatory to entering the service.

Since the first of this month officials at the receiving station, which is now located in Block F, near division headquarters, state that approximately 200 Georgians, Alabamans and Tennesseans have appeared for formal entry into the national army.

While this number is not particularly large, for more than 10,000 men were exempted until December 1 on account of agricultural and industrial reasons, it may be explained that the men were ordered to report to their local boards on that date and not to proceed directly to the camp. This fact will cause a delay of a few days, and it is probable that the men in this class will begin pouring into the reservation in great numbers today and from now on until after the fifteenth.

Officials state that they expect the real rush of tri-state selectmen during the latter part of the week. Beginning Tuesday and extending through Sunday there should be several thousand applicants for admission to the division from the three southern states.

One department at the camp is devoted to these selectmen, known as the casual detachment.

THE INTENSIVE SYSTEM RENEWED WITH A SNAP

Men at Gordon Get Down to Work After Thanksgiving Week With Vigor.

Following the rest and relaxation of the past week-end, soldiers at Camp Gordon yesterday again took up the intensive training program now in force at the camp and went about their work in such good spirits that officials of the division consider the extra day of last week spent in holiday celebration well worth while despite the small delay in the training of the men.

From Thanksgiving day until Monday the Eighty-second division witnessed a slight relaxation in the military routine of the camp. On Thursday the entire military affairs of the camp were abandoned for the day, and on Friday the long hike was called off for the week. On the succeeding day the troops were only concerned with the formal division review and on Sunday the camp was again a scene of complete rest.

Renewed Vigor.

And despite the fact that the men have had such a rest from the strenuous work at Camp Gordon they have shown no inclination to prolong their inactivity by "loafing on the job." Instead they took up their work with renewed vigor and snap and interest.

"There was as much work accomplished Monday as in two days before the boys had a rest," stated one of the officers, "and it's good to see them grin and laugh at their work. Holidays certainly do not make Camp Gordon lazy."

The advanced war training program seems now to have reached its period of maximum intensity. Men are working long hours every day and they are doing hard work, but they are doing it with a determined spirit that bids fair to result in 100 per cent efficiency when the troops reach the other side.

Drills and the manual of arms are already familiar to every member of the division to a surprising degree, and the division is now largely concerned with instruction in war methods originated in the present world struggle. Trench digging, hand-grenade throwing, machine gunfiring, light and heavy artillery methods, hand-to-hand fighting and others as important occupy prominent places in the routine of the camp and, in addition, these departments of training are being rushed to their maximum capacity.

Small and Heavy Arms.

The men are also engaged daily in learning the details of proficiency with small and heavy arms. Sighting at targets and bayonet practice with straw sacks for boches are well-known scenes on the reservation. In addition, the men are being taught the art of rushing trenches, falling to fire, seeking cover and retreating in order.

And the best part of the entire advanced program is that the men are going about their work with a determination to learn its every detail. Officers are proud of the spirit of the enlisted men, and enlisted men are grateful for the patience and kindness of the officers. The camp has inaugurated, in short, a co-operative system between both officers and men that bids fair to result in Camp Gordon's putting one of the most highly efficient national army divisions of the country in the field when the call comes for the men to go "over there."

SEVERAL BRIGADIERS ARE NAMED IN ORDERS

These Orders Will Be Issued by the Department in the Next Day or Two.

Washington, December 3.—(Special.) Important orders, it was learned today, are being issued to several commanding officers at Georgia camps.

Among those the orders affect are Major Pease, of Atlanta, who has been in charge of construction work at Camp Gordon; Brigadier General Walter A. Harris, commander of the 61st infantry, and Brigadier General John L. Hayden, R. B. Steiner and A. H. Blanding.

It is understood, unofficially, that the war department will detail Major Pease to Camp Jackson at Jacksonville, where much construction work is on hand, and to Arcadia, Fla., where large buildings are to be erected for aviation purposes.

Junior Officers to Stage Gordon's Biggest Affair Monday Evening, Dec. 10

The regular "open night" dance and supper at junior officers' mess was last night postponed until next Monday night in favor of a big entertainment to be given in honor of the officers of division headquarters.

Officials on the entertainment program are already planning for the elaborate affair next week, which will probably be the biggest society event to occur on the reservation. It is stated that a much larger number of guests than heretofore invited will be present to do honor to the division officials.

MAJOR J. NORMAN PEASE IS ORDERED TO FLORIDA

Popular Construction Quartermaster to Build Aviation Camp and Other Work.

Major J. Norman Pease, the construction quartermaster at Camp Gordon, who turns over the camp construction work today to the camp quartermaster, the camp having been finished so far as the original and amended plans are concerned, will be assigned by the war department to work at the different camps in Florida, Camp Johnson, near Jacksonville, which is now under course of construction as a quartermasters' training camp, and the aviation camp at Arcadia, Fla.

The aviation camp at Arcadia, which will be constructed under Major Pearse's direction, is to have several large buildings.

Other government construction work is to be done at different points in Florida, and the policy is to push the aviation camps with all possible speed.

Major J. Norman Pease is highly regarded by officers and men, and the thousands of civilians with whom he has come in contact in the great job that has been his during the construction of Camp Gordon.

The Soldier's Dream.

By B. J. Simpkins, Tucker, Ga.
(Dedicated to the Soldier Boys of American Cantonments Through The Atlanta Constitution.)

I'd love to be a soldier and in Europe take my stand,
With an iron cross upon me and a rifle in my hand;
I'd rush the hellish trenches and frail the Teutons out,
'Till I had freed little Belgium and put her foes to rout.

I'd cross over the Alps to Italy and there
I'd take my stand,
'Til the Austro-German forces were driven from the land;
The beautiful city of Venice, now sleeping on the bay,
Preserve her fame and glory forever and a day.

I'd come back then to England, take John Bull by the hand,
Cry "Forward, march!" and drive the Boches from the land.
The roar of the British lion once more our hearts would thrill;
Mistress of the sea, she'll whisper, "Peace, be still."

Then on to Sunny France, who's truly walked with God,
Driving over bloody fields the enemy from her sod;
We all bow to the Frenchman, brave and true and tried,
His home the battlefield; for France he bled and died.

I'd cross the Rhine in triumph and strike the Hapsburgs down,
And crush the Hohenzollerns in every field and town,
And, rushing on to Pottsdam, that gave the emperer birth,
I'd lasso Kaiser Bill and drag him off the earth.

Then back to dear America, land of the true and brave,
She saved the world from filling an ignominious grave;
We'd kiss the folds of Glory, always faithful and true;
She heeded the signals, S. O. S., the red, the white and the blue.

The Trust of My Sweetheart Rose

BY ARTHUR F. JONES,
Camp Gordon.

"And whut'll yez kerry?" says Sergeant O'Leary
To Corporal McBride o' the Sixth,
When the lights were gone in the barracks room,
And the dark came in on the shafts of the moon;
When the whispering voices were far and low,
And the line of the cots was a vague, black row.

"Whut'll yez kerry?" says Sergeant O'Leary,
"Whin yez sail on the shap 'Uver there'?"
"Oi'll kerry the strangth av me ane roight hand,

"Oi know whut yez say is asily tole,"

"But the trust Oi take is the trust av a sould,
And the shoine av me loov is the shoine av gold,
The faith av her trust will naver grow loight,
But will hold loike the charm av a June moon noight.

"She giv me a kiss wit' the swate av her lips,

"The loight av the moon?" asks Sergeant O'Leary.
"The cloud-barsting moon, sez ye?

CAMP IN BRIEF

Mrs. C. A. Boyer, wife of the division athletic director at Camp Gordon, arrived in Atlanta Sunday and took up her residence in the city, to be near her husband. Mrs. Boyer will remain in Atlanta as long as Mr. Boyer is located at the camp.

Speeding on and near the reservation is now under control of the military police and the county police, according to Colonel Ely, commander of the former. Colonel Ely states that very little trouble is experienced now in that line and that conditions about the camp are in excellent shape.

* * * * *

The several hundred tri-state selectmen now in camp are being rapidly uniformed and equipped. They are also being taught the rudiments of drilling under the direction of several line officers who have been detailed to teach the casual detachment.

Quartermaster officers at Camp Gordon were yesterday interested in the report that eighteen of their number are soon to be sent to Camp McClellan at Anniston, Ala. As yet it is not known which men will leave the Georgia reservation.

* * * * *

Many of the men at camp have been ordered to remain in the reservation for two weeks, without passes, as a penalty for failing to salute officers on the streets of Atlanta during the past week.

Dr. J. O. Grogan, religious director at Camp Gordon, will preach the convocation sermon at Emory college Thursday. Dr. Grogan shortly leaves for France. No man in the work at Camp Gordon is more popular.

FIRING AT NORCROSS TO BEGIN WEDNESDAY

Present Plans for 325th Infantry to Go First—Artillery Firing Near Marietta.

Firing on the small arms range at Norcross by enlisted men of the Eighty-second division is scheduled to begin on December 5, as forecasted in a recent issue of The Constitution. Officials yesterday stated that no change had occurred and that work on the range is being rushed to allow the firing of enlisted men on Wenesday.

In addition it still seems highly probable that the Three Hundred and Twenty-fifth infantry regiment will be the first to be moved to the range for a stay of about a week. Officers of that organization are already making preparation for the departure of the regiment on that day, and a number of them are purchasing necessaries for the stay at Norcross.

Officials also state that all is in readiness for the beginning of firing on the artillery range at Blackjack mountain, near Marietta. A party of artillerymen from the Three Hundred and Nineteenth field artillery is already on the range, and ammunition for practice firing has been issued them. Today will probably witness firing there.

The pistol range, a short distance south of the camp, is also rapidly nearing completion, and it is probable that firing on it will begin some time this week. Hand grenades are being called for by officials of the school of instruction in throwing these weapons, and it seems probable that they will be at camp in a few days.

Contractors Turn Over Camp Construction Work As a Finished Job Today

With the announcement that the construction work at the camp is completed and that Major Pease will place affairs in the hands of Major Thomas today, the military police were yesterday engaged in directing a thorough cleaning-up of that part of the reservation on and near the Peachtree road.

The actual work of cleaning the northern part of the reservation of all refuse and scraps of paper and wood was done by members of the various organizations under the direction of Colonel Frank Ely, commander of the military police. The work consumed the greater part of the day, and when it was completed the buildings and grounds looked as clean and neat as a new pin.

With the transfer of construction work it is probable that the entire reservation will be subjected to a similar cleaning under the direction of the camp police.

The formal transfer of the construction work at Camp Gordon to the government will be made today.

TALK OF THE CAMP

During the course of one of the daily drills a captain of one of the companies of the First provisional regiment barked a sharp order to his perspiring men.

"Right oblique," he snapped, according to military form. One of the negroes failed to understand the words, and, thinking the captain had called "White or black?" he promptly came to attention, saluted and said, "Black, sir."

One of the men who recently received a suit of heavy underwear from home discovered one morning upon arising that he had lost this precious garment. He searched high and low for it but it was nowhere to be found. Finally one of his companions asked what was that underneath his pajamas, and the soldier found it was his lost winter underwear.

Celery was the least consumed of all the dishes served the soldiers on Thanksgiving day, according to officials in charge of the big dinner. "Some of the men who are new to this country," several stated, "thought it was a flower and others a weed. At any rate there was only a little bit of celery eaten. One of the men pinned a leaf to his military blouse and proudly exhibited it as a souvenir of the occasion.

Old Sergeant in the 326th—Just wait till you get on post on a cold night.

Rookie (Yiddish)—Vell, I won't stay on the post all the time, I'll get off and walk around once in a while.

Letter Home (from Y unit 149)—"Dear Mother: I am now on the kitchen police."

Letter Back—"Dear Son: Be kind to the men who come under your authority, poor fellows."

Question by Al Harris—"Who's the most popular man in camp?"
Answer by Mess Sergeant: "Gimmie."

Questions and Answers

A man comes to this country at the age of 20 and joins the army, is he a citizen? After residing in this country thirty-five years, a man takes out his first papers in 1916, has he any of the rights of a citizen? A young man representing himself to be 21 years of age enlists in the army without the knowledge of his parents; it turns out that he is not 18 years of age; is he compelled to serve without the consent of his parents? W. O. S.

The fact that a man is in the American army does not make him a citizen, although it does enable him to gain citizenship without taking out papers if he has served a stipulated time. In the case of a man who has taken out his first papers within the year, it depends in what state he took them out in to determine if he has any of the rights of citizenship. In some states of the union he can vote after taking out his first papers. First papers make him eligible to the draft in all states. A minor must have the consent of his parents in order to join the army.

To Camp Gordon Boys.

In the name of Dixie's girls I bid you welcome,
Welcome to our southland, soldiers all;
From east and west and north you're coming to us,
You—our country's answer to our country's call.

They have gone elsewhere—our southern friends and brothers,
And in their name we salute you—friends;
We're glad to know you, proud to have you with us,
As one, the girl Atlanta, hearty greeting sends.

We hope you'll like the south and us, and while you stay
Remember, you brave, strong soldiers all,
We are your friends to serve you when you need us;
We—all Dixie's girls—stand ready for your call.

—By one of "Dixie's Girls" to the boys at Camp Gordon.

Closed steady.

New York, December 3.—Reports of an easier spot situation were followed by active liquidation in the cotton market late today, with January selling off to 28.92 and closing at 28.93. The general list closed easy at a net decline of 10 points on October and of 41 to 53 points on other months.

The market opened steady at a decline of 2 to 25 points on all positions except October, which was 21 points higher. Selling was held in check during the earlier trading by reports that the scarcity of warehouse room here would prevent shipments of cotton from the south for delivery on contract, and prices rallied several points shortly after the opening on Liverpool buying, covering and a moderate demand from trade sources. Buying of the latter description was less in evidence than for some time past, however, and the market turned easier during the afternoon on continued reports of larger southern spot offering. Wall street and scattering liquidation. The lowest levels of the day were reached in the late trading with December selling at 29.52 and March at 28.65, or 44 to 53 points below the closing figures of Saturday. It was reported that cotton could be bought in the south at prices which would permit of deliveries on December here at a profit and that southern shippers in several sections of the belt were asking local brokers for bids. The disposition to close out long contracts was also increased by uncertainty as to the showing of the private and official reports, which are expected within the next few days. A rate of $10 per hundred was said to have been paid for ocean freight room from New York to Liverpool on Saturday with the same rate bid for additional space.

Macon Raises Fund To Reimburse French Officer for Robbery

Macon, Ga., December 3.—(Special.) The people of Macon do not intend to have word go back to France that the famed hospitality of the south is a myth—not if a little matter of $225 will prevent it.

A few weeks ago one of the French officers sent here to aid in training the 31st division at Camp Wheeler in modern warfare, was robbed of his purse containing $225, his passports and other valuable papers while he was taking a dip in the pool at the city Y. M. C. A. Later the purse was recovered and it still contained the passports and papers, but the cash was missing. Now a movement has been started to raise a fund of $225 to reimburse the officer, who is said to have been somewhat embarrassed by his loss, owing to the fact that the money represented an advance from his government and was several months' pay for his service in the army. Already a neat sum has been raised and the balance is expected to be in hand shortly. One of the American officers at the camp headed the list with a subscription of $10.

Those behind the movement take the position that the French officer is a guest of this country and he should not be permitted to gain a bad impression of Americans through having his pocket picked, especially while he is giving his time and talent to equipping young Americans so they may be better able to meet the Hun in battle.

PROBE IS PROPOSED OF SUGAR SHORTAGE

Washington, December 3.—Investigation by a house committee of the sugar shortage, with directions to report recommendations to prevent a recurrence, was proposed in a resolution introduced today by Representative Martin, of Louisiana. It was referred to the rules committee.

The resolution reads:

"That the speaker of the house shall appoint from the membership of the house a committee of seven whose duty it shall be to investigate, ascertain and report to the house the causes for the existing shortage of sugar, and the prevailing prices for available supplies in the United States, and to make such recommendations as may be deemed advisable to prevent if possible a recurrence of a sugar famine."

MACON CITY ATTORNEY TENDERS RESIGNATION

Macon, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—City Attorney W. D. McNeil, who has been filling that office for the past four years, will tender his resignation Tuesday night to take effect at once. The indications are that the resignation will be accepted, though Mr. McNeil's term would not ordinarily expire until December 17. The city attorney feels that the new mayor and council should have the advice of an attorney of their own choosing and Attorney R. G. Plunkett having already been elected to the office, Mr. McNeil thinks he should be installed at once. All of the new city department heads will take office on December 17, the new city administration having elected new men with the exception of three or four.

Federal Court Convenes.

Columbus, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—Federal court for the western division of Georgia convened here today, Judge William T. Newman presiding, and the first day was devoted largely to the trial of revenue cases of minor character. In his charge to the grand jury Judge Newman directed that body to be diligent in its efforts to stop sales of whisky to soldiers in uniform. A number of cases of this character are now pending, the defendants being women who were members of the recently abolished restricted district of Columbus. Hon. L. H. Chappell, of Columbus, was made foreman of the grand jury.

New Augusta Secretary.

Augusta, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—Leon J. Farmer, now Y. M. C. A. secretary at Albany, Ga., has been elected Y. M. C. A. secretary at Augusta, succeeding Walter J. Hunter, who sails during December to undertake Y. M. C. A. work in France.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, December 3.—(Special.)—Today's market showed little resistance and strengthens our idea that lower prices will be witnessed. An easier tendency in southern spots, together with a disinclination on the part of the public to buy at present prices, makes a weaker situation and we consider sales at times of strength preferably to purchases for the present at least.
JOHNSTON STORM & CO.

New York, December 3.—(Special.)—Heavy liquidation both for local and western account, together with southern hedge selling, brought about a decline of approximately 40 points. Some advices pointed to an easier spot basis. Exports were 6,595 bales.
J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, December 3.—(Special.)—The market ruled dull with the local traders bullish, though, in the absence of an active demand the realising sales before the bureau report could only be absorbed at a somewhat lower range of prices. The disposition among many is to wait further developments until the cotton, which is for sale at about these prices in the south, is taken up either for export in the slow manner it has been going or by the mills. Cotton without designation is reported as offered at concessions, but really desirable quotations are hard to find. On the whole, the market is waiting one, with trading effected by the increased tax, which checks transaction. The liquidation finally proved too heavy in the small market under this weight of selling. The market closed weak.

Sisters' Case Postponed.

Savannah, Ga., December 3.—In the superior court this morning the hearing of the charges of contempt of court against two local Sisters of Mercy for declining to permit grand jury committees to inspect the homes in their charge, under the Veasey act, went over until December 6. The defendants were ready to appear, but the solicitor general being busy in the grand jury room, could not be present, the state asked for a continuance.

PRESSURE AT CLOSE SENDS COTTON DOWN

New Orleans, December 3.—Liquidation was the keynote of the cotton market here today, and pressure was heaviest on the close, which was at the lowest of the day, a net loss of 40 to 48 points. Until the last few minutes of trading the market was steady at the decline, with offerings fairly well absorbed. A flurry of selling occurred late in the session, and the ring did not stand up well under it.

The opening was at the decline, and in the early trading prices lost about a dollar a bale. There were several partial recoveries from this decline, but at no time did the market show any real buying power.

A poor Liverpool, reopening of congress, pending bureau reports on condition and yield and the war taxes now imposed on future contracts all worked to cause a selling out movement among holders of long contracts. No surface features developed to stimulate selling. War taxes were given by some brokers as the chief reason for the lack of support at the decline, the amount now being collected by the government on each trade being equal to something over half a point. It was claimed this prevents much of the business formerly done by the scalping element.

CONGRESS OPENING CURTAILS SALES

Expected Record War Appropriations Bring Extreme Lassitude to Stock Market—Trading Centered in Railways and Industrials

New York, December 3.—In the absence of definite or specific developments over the week-end, the extreme lassitude of today's stock market was attributed to the reopening of congress. Indications that war appropriations by the nation's law-making body are to assume record-breaking proportions sufficed to limit operations.

Trading centered around less than a score of leaders in the railway and industrial groups. The latter were irregular, with occasional spells of steadiness, but rails lagged, coalers and Pacifics yielding 1 to almost 2 points.

New low records were made by St. Paul preferred at 72¾, and Union Pacific preferred at 70. Pennsylvania was freely offered in large lots down to 45, repeating its recent minimum, and numerous other rails came within fractional approach of their lowest quotations.

Prominent steels, coppers and the more distinctive war issues which reacted 1 to almost 3 ponts. Pullman dropped 4 points and General Motors and Studebaker 1½ to 2 points. Many hitherto active rails and equipments remained unquoted throughout the session.

The irregular strength of marine preferred, Maxwell Motors, Central Leather and Harvester was traceable to the operations of pools. United States Steel registered a net loss of ⅝ of a point at 91¾, and Bethlehem Steel B forfeited over 2 points at 76¾.

Additional October earnings of railroads were again adverse, New York Central showing a net loss of $1,363,000, and St. Paul $1,225,000.

Bonds were heavy on restricted dealings. Liberty 4s shanged hands at 90.70 to 92.82, and the 3½s at 98.90 to 99. Total sales, par value, aggregated $3,225,000.

United States bonds (old issues) were unchanged on call.

Record Treasury Balance.

Washington, December 3.—The working balance in the treasury was raised to a new high record today of $2,515,000,000 by receipts of $685,000,000 from the latest issue of certificates of indebtedness due next June, and $43,000,000 from Liberty Loan payments. The previous high record was $1,968,000,000 on November 23.

Funds reaching the treasury today raised the total receipts during the present fiscal year, or since July 1, to the large sum of $7,185,000,000. Of this only $467,000,000 came from the ordinary sources of revenue, nearly all the balance being derived from the sale of Liberty bonds or certificates of indebtedness.

Receipts from the second Liberty Loan have been $2,734,000,000, or about 70 per cent of the $3,808,000,000 total, although only about 5 per cent was due, additional large receipts are still reaching the treasury daily. The balance is due in two payments of 40 per cent each, December 14 and January 14. Nearly $500,000,000 of the Liberty oLan receipts since November 15 are believed to be in certificates.

Disbursements since July 1 have been $5,807,000,000, which $1,681,000,000 was ordinary government expense, mainly for the war; $2,379,000,000 constituted actual payments to the allies on credits previously authorized, and $1,656,000,000 was for redemption of certificates of indebtedness issued in anticipation of receipts from the second Liberty Loan.

CORN WAS BULLISH ON UNEASY MARKET

Belief That Enlarged Receipts Are Over Discounted Causes Rise in Corn. Oats Also Show Gain.

Chicago, December 3.—Bulls in corn had an advantage today owing largely to acceptance of opinions that for the present the likelihood of enlarged receipts had been discounted more than enough. Prices closed nervous, ⅝ to 1⅛c net higher, with January $1.20⅜ to $1.20½, and May $1.18⅞ to $1.19. Oats gained 1⅜ to 2⅛c. The finish in provisions ranged from 10c decline to a rise of 2½c.

Notwithstanding that rural advices told of heavier shipments coming, and despite the fact that the trade continued to expect much more liberal arrivals in the near future, the fact that receipts of corn today were of only moderate value had an evident tendency to make sellers cautious. Offerings were scarce throughout the session, and it was noticeable that predictions of excellent weather failed to bring about any change in pit sentiment. One reason was that strength of oats acted as an offset for all bearish developments.

Fresh buying for export interests put the oats market on the upgrade. Talk was current that government purchasing might average 500,000 bushels daily.

Provisions averaged higher with hogs and grains. Realizing sales, however, weakened the market during the last half hour. Exports for the week showed a decided falling off compared with last year.

There were also sales of 500 tons of Philippine Island sugars in transit by rail from San Francisco to a local refiner at 5.75 basis degrees delivered, which is equivalent to 6.90 for centrifugal. On the last sale of Cubas, prices are quoted nominally at 5.69 cost and freight, equal to 6.70 for centrifugal and 5.32 for molasses. It was understood, however, that the committee will make no further purchases of Cubas at above the recently fixed quotation of 4.60, f. o. b. Cuba, which would equal 4.90, cost and freight, New York, allowing 30 cents for freight, or 5.90 for centrifugal, duty paid.

In refined prices were unchanged at 8.35 for fine granulated, with business still restricted, owing to the scarcity of supplies.

...ET OF "LINEN" ...RRIED BY PORTER CONTAINED WHISKY

The fact that it seemed to require some effort for Jim Joseph, a negro Pullman porter, to carry a basket while walking through the N., C. & St. L. railroad yards last night, caused special agent of the road, J. M. Jarman, to become suspicious when he noted this and to ask Joseph what the basket contained.

The negro explained that it contained linen which he was carrying to the linen room. This explanation did not ally Jarman's suspicions, however, and he took the negro and the basket into custody. Upon opening the basket he found that it contained ten pints of whisky. Joseph would give no explanation as to where he got the whisky or what he was going to do with it.

Special Agent Jarman carried the negro to the county jail, where he was locked up. He lives at 522 West Mitchell street.

Judge Smith to Solve Troubles of Chamblee, DeKalb's Newest City

The December term of the superior court, Stone Mountain circuit, convened Monday morning, Judge C. W. Smith presiding. J. A. Campbell was elected foreman of the grand jury, with T. S. Hodges, clerk, and Manning Goldsmith, assistant.

Several undefended divorce suits were tried and verdicts rendered. Civil suits will be the order all the week. Criminal cases will be called next week.

Municipal troubles of DeKalb's newest city, Chamblee, were aired when an injunction suit was brought. Chamblee's troubles have come thick and fast. After preparing to sell everything a soldier could eat or drink, the military authorities stepped in and prevented the soldiers from going into Chamblee because of unsanitary conditions. Chamblee's officials have since tried to better conditions. Mayor Walker on last Thursday revoked the license of M. D. Gleason and others running restaurants. Gleason obtained an injunction preventing the mayor from interfering with his business, alleging that Walker's term as mayor had expired, therefore that said Walker was not mayor. Gleason claimed that the town officials acted arbitrarily in revoking his license, and had fined his clerk $25 for doing business without a license. The town officials when served with the injunction called another election to make sure that Walker really was mayor. It is claimed that 15 votes were cast, but R. A. Eidson had the big end, receiving 8 votes to Walker's 7.

Judge Smith ended the case temporarily by announcing that he will visit Chamblee next Saturday morning and see where the trouble is. In the meantime Judge Smith modified the injunction, restraining the town of Chamblee from revoking the license of Gleason.

WILL TRY SIX MURDER CASES IN BIBB COURT

Macon, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—Six murder cases and a score of indictments charging violation of the state prohibition law will be taken up during the criminal term of the Bibb superior court which convened today, the first of the murder cases, that of George Moon, charged with killing J. J. Whittington at Crump's Park last March in a dispute over five cents worth of tallow candles, to be called by Judge Mathews tomorrow.

Two of the other murder defendants are white and one of them is a woman, Mrs. Gertrude C. Barksdale, who is charged with killing a negro boy. Mrs. Barksdale claims the negro insulted her. Charles Caldwell, a negro, is also a defendant in this case. This is the first time a Macon woman has ever been tried for killing a negro and the case attracts considerable attention due to reports that some sensational testimony will be brought out during the trial. Mrs. Barksdale has been in jail since last April, when the killing took place.

TROLLEY COMPANY SUED BY NEWSBOY FOR $25,000

Claiming that he was thrown off the Soldiers' Home line of the Georgia Railway and Power company December 1 by a conductor as he attempted to enter the car, Horace Mann, a 17-year-old cripple newsboy, yesterday filed suit in superior court against the company for $25,000. The plaintiff claims that as a result of the alleged assault his spine has become injured.

It is set up in the claim that as Mann attempted to enter the car at the corner of Decatur and Pryor streets, assisted by two friends, he was refused admittance by the conductor, who is alleged to have claimed the newsboy was drunk. Upon Mann's entrance to the car, it is said, he was struck by the conductor and knocked into the street.

Clerical Strike Settled.

Waycross, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—A settlement of the recent strike of the Atlantic Coast Line clerks has been effected, whereby all the clerks are to be reinstated. It is understood that, while both sides made some minor concessions, the agreement reached is satisfactory to both.

PERSONAL

CLAIRVOYANT & PALMIST MME. PARKS

HOW many unhappy people are there in this city whose lives are darkened by the acts of others? Is your life nearly a wreck because you cannot overcome trouble of a domestic nature or otherwise? Do you desire the return of affection rightly yours or does another receive it? Is the one of your choice growing cold and indifferent? Do you find, with all your natural gifts and talent, you are baffled and discouraged? If so, do not despair. Trouble and misfortune are no respecter of persons, they gnaw at the hearts of rich and poor alike. The All-Wise Creator did not endow you with high ideals, noble aspirations or that love craving within your heart, without at the same time placing a means within reach to get same. If you had studied more into nature's laws and learned the lesson therein, you would know well why some are successful while others are not. No need to be unhappy or in doubt when Mme. Parks' advice is sought and taken. No. 10 Eads avenue. Take Soldiers' Home car and get off at Eads avenue. Hours, 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.

ATLANTA PASSES UP LEAGUE MEET

One week from Saturday the annual meeting or the Southern league will be held in Birmingham.

This announcement creates little interest among Atlanta fans, other than the place the meeting is announced for.

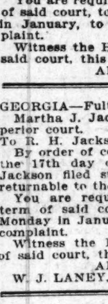

The meeting is usually awarded to the city winning the pennant, provided that city invites the Southern league to meet there. But Atlanta did not invite the Southern league to meet here, and had no intention of doing so.

Whether or not Atlanta will have a representative at the meeting remains to be seen.

There is no fight up of any nature at this time. Only the salary and player limits are to be discussed, while it is said that President Baugh favors a shorter schedule—140 games instead of 154—and a later start.

The meeting December 15, with the assurance that Mobile is in the league to stay with a new manager and a new board of directors, no fight over the president's election, etc., lines up in advance as being a tame one.

Dutch Frank is fishing down in Louisiana. If the fish are biting good, the meeting can go hang as far as the Dutchman is concerned. He may attend the meeting and he may not. It all depends on his mood.

BROWN VS. YORK AT THE COLUMBIA

Two more good boxing shows will be staged at the Columbia theater this week, each show consisting of 20 rounds of fast boxing.

Tonight Kid Brown and Kid York, old ring rivals, will get together over the 10-round route, and the fur should certainly fly. These boys have been hated rivals for some time, and this bout should decide for all time which is the better boy.

This bout has been hanging fire for some time, but due to the fact that "Happy" Joe Trent has been booking such boys as Battling Budd, Terry Nelson, Pete Shaughnessey, Young McCarty and others during the past few weeks, Brown and York have been forced to step aside.

Now, however, "Happy" thinks the time is ripe for this contest. The bigger boys will have a chance to rest, and the fans will get an opportunity to see the fighter boys in action. Brown and York are by no means strangers in this city. Both have big followings here, due to their many bouts in this section of the country.

A six-round bout between Young Attell and Bud Conley will be staged as the semi-windup to the main event. These boys are also well known here, and should put up an interesting set-to. A four-round go will wind up the card, which will be staged in addition to the theatrical performance at popular prices.

Red Mason and Kid Underwood may get together next Friday night, as "Happy" Joe Trent is now trying to close this contest. Mike Saul will be the referee.

A. A. C. FIVE OPENS SEASON DECEMBER 15

The basketball season in Atlanta will get under way Saturday night, December 15, when the Atlanta Athletic club opens the season against a team representing Camp Gordon.

The Athletic club will send against opponents this year, a brand-new team, the entire varsity last year, southern champions for several seasons, now playing that greater game—the game in khaki.

The A. A. C. aggregation will receive a severe test is certain, for on the Camp Gordon line-up are four of the five regulars of last year's A. A. C. champions, together with two of Georgia's team of 1916.

Spartanburg, Vanderbilt, Mercer, Camp Hancock, Auburn, Georgia, Birmingham, the Nashville Ramblers and other teams will be booked and one of the stiffest schedules ever arranged is the prospect.

The local aggregation has a tough season ahead of it, and with an entirely new line-up, it remains to be seen just what the local quintet will accomplish in defending the championship this season.

The A. A. C. aggregation in basketball last season was like the Golden Tornado was in football this season and this year Atlanta basketball fans can probably look forward to some real basketball.

THIRTEEN TEAMS TIED IN THE BICYCLE RACE

New York, December 3.—Thirteen teams remained intact in the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden this morning, it being officially announced at 12:30 that the Spencer brothers, Arthur and Willie, of Toronto, Canada, had retired from the race.

At midnight thirteen pairs were tied with scores of 469 miles, 9 laps each, while Madonna and Bello, who lost one lap shortly after the start, were still that distance behind.

The feature of this year's race is the point sprints, five of which took place in the afternoon and ten last night. The five leading point scores were Goullet and Magin, 56; Kramer and Egg, 49; Corry and Madden, 45; Verri and Spears, 40, and Hill and Hanley, 35.

Midnight score (24th hour):

Thirteen teams tied at 469 miles, 9 laps; Madonna and Bello one lap behind.

The record is 537 miles 9 laps, made by Fogler and Hill in 1914.

Lewis Throws Lemarin.

Savannah, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—After losing the first fall in one hour and twenty-seven minutes with the hammer lock, Ed (Strangler) Lewis, world's champion wrestler, won from Constance Lemarin, Canadian champion, by throwing him in seventeen and again in five minutes with his favorite head lock. The bout was witnessed by the largest crowd that ever attended a similar event in Savannah.

BREAKING OF DEADLOCK PREDICTED BY ADAMSON

Congressman Thinks 4th District Convention Will Nominate When It Reconvenes.

Washington, December 3.—(Special.) Congressman Adamson, who a day or two ago informed President Wilson that he would retain his seat in congress until his successor is appointed, today said that he believed the matter would be ended in the Fourth district when the convention meets again on December 11, and that immediately thereafter he would leave congress.

"I have no doubt that this matter will be settled when the convention again meets," Judge Adamson said, "and as there will be only about two weeks of congress with the Christmas holidays coming in, I will have my secretary, Willis Davis, look after the affairs of the district until the new member can properly qualify after he is chosen. In that way I can take my new place and at the same time the interests of the Fourth district will not suffer."

SIX JACKETS ON COMPOSITE PICK

"Georgia Tech Is Real World's Champs This Year"

—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Two more papers, The New York Evening Mail and The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, have conceded titular honors for 1917 to the Georgia Tech Golden Tornado.

The New York Sun was the first to come out with a claim for Tech as champions, their comment being reproduced Saturday morning in The Constitution.

J. E. Wray, sporting editor of The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, has this to say about the Yellow Jackets in a recent issue:

Thanksgiving day games served only to accentuate the supremacy of sectional titleholders in other divisions, wherever they competed. The most interesting score of the day was the 68-7 defeat of Auburn by Georgia Tech. This remarkable eleven utterly crushed a strong team, one of sufficient resistance to check the "Big Ten" champions, Ohio State, holding that strong machine scoreless. This game makes Tech over 60 points better than an eleven supposed to be strongest in the midwest.

Such a superiority will convince even the doubting Thomases that the southern institution is the real world's champion, this year.

Pittsburg university came through with a decisive defeat of Penn State, although scored against.

All Champions Unquestioned.

The unquestioned champions of the season are now as follows:

1. United States—Georgia School of Technology.
2. East—Pittsburg university.
3. Big Ten—Ohio State.
4. Missouri Valley—Nebraska.
5. South—Georgia Tech.
6. Southwest—Texas Aggies.
7. Far West—Washington Aggies.

In some cases this does not mean that the strongest eleven is necessarily the champion. There are many who believe that Minnesota is stronger than Ohio State, and that Navy is better than Pittsburg. This view can be demonstrated by comparative scores. Nevertheless, the records of both Minnesota and the Middies were marred by one defeat each, putting them out of the running.

Unanimity of Choice Without Parallel in Naming All-Southern

By Dick Jemison.

Never in the history of the selecting of all-southern football teams has there been such a unanimity of opinion as prevails this year in the picking of all-southern football teams.

We have compiled a composite all-southern football team from the picks of seven dopesters in the south. The choices included in the final compilation are those made by the following:

J. W. Heisman, in The Atlanta Georgian; Morgan Blake, in The Atlanta Journal; Fred Bodeker, in The Birmingham Age-Herald; George L. Watkins, in The Birmingham News; Fred Digby, in The New Orleans Item; Blinkey Horn, in The Nashville Tennessean, and the writer in The Constitution.

Seven of the eleven men chosen on the all-southern are the unanimous selections of these seven men, though some of them are awarded various positions in the picks.

Unanimous Selections.

Pup Phillips and Walker Carpenter, of Tech, are awarded unanimous berths at center and tackle respectively. Fincher, Guyon and Strupper of Tech are chosen by all seven men, as were Ducote and Bonner, of Auburn.

Fincher was picked for a guard and a tackle, Guyon for an end, a half and a fullback, Strupper for a quarter and a half, Ducote for an end, a half and a fullback and Bonner for a guard and a tackle.

Albert Hill, of Tech, was awarded the quarterback's place on six of the picks, Fred Bodeker giving Strupper that place and placing another man at half in Strupper's place.

Another matter of unanimity is the few men chosen on the all-southern as a whole, even where there is a difference in opinion, a total of but seventeen different men being picked to fill the eleven places.

Votes and Positions.

CENTER: Phillips (Tech), 7.
GUARDS—Bonner (Auburn), 4; Sessions (Alabama), 3; Fincher (Tech), 3; Grey (Davidson), 1; Robinson (Auburn), 1; Gee (Clemson), 1; Collee (Tulane), 1.
TACKLES — Carpenter (Tech), 7; Fincher (Tech), 4; Bonner (Auburn), 3.
ENDS—Ducote (Auburn), 4; Adams (Vanderbilt), 3; Boone (Alabama), 2; Guill (Tech), 2; Guyon (Tech), 1; King (Davidson), 1; Wortham (Sewanee), 1.
QUARTER—Hill Tech), 6; Strupper (Tech), 1.
HALFBACKS—Strupper (Tech), 6; Flowers (Davidson), 3; Guyon (Tech), 2; Wortham (Sewanee), 2; Ducote (Auburn), 1.
FULLBACK—Guyon (Tech), 4; Ducote (Auburn), 2; Wortham (Sewanee), 1.

Wortham, of Sewanee, was chosen by four of the seven men, while Adams, of Vanderbilt; Sessions, of Alabama, and Flowers, of Davidson, received three votes each. Guill, of Tech, and Boone, of Alabama, received two votes each.

The Composite Pick.

Fincher, of Tech, and Bonner, of Auburn, got all seven votes; Fincher, four at tackle and three at guard; while Bonner got four at guard and three at tackle. They are therefore placed as the greatest votes came.

Ducote, of Auburn, got all seven votes; Fincher, four at tackle and three at guard, while Bonner got four at guard and three at tackle. They are therefore placed as the greatest votes came.

Ducote of Auburn got all seven votes, but he got four at end, two at full and one at half. He is therefore placed on the flank. Guyon is placed at fullback because he got four votes there, two at half and one at end.

The following is the all-southern pick, showing the votes the men got at the positions they're finally assigned to, though it must be remembered that the majority of them got other votes, but at other positions.

Players—Teams—Positions.	Votes.
Adams, Vanderbilt, left end	3
Carpenter, Tech, left tackle	7
Bonner, Auburn, left guard	4
Phillips, Tech, center	7
Sessions, Alabama, right guard	3
Fincher, Tech, right tackle	4
Ducote, Auburn, right end	4
Hill, Tech, quarterback	6
Strupper, Tech, left halfback	6
Flowers, Davidson, right halfback	3
Guyon, Tech, fullback	4

FIERCEST BATTLE OF THE WORLD WAR

north of the Chemin-des-Dames and in the Verdun sector. An attack by the Germans north of Gilrey, in the latter region was entirely without result, the Germans being driven back by the French, suffering heavy casualties and leaving prisoners behind them.

Likewise, on the Italian front the fighting is mostly by means of big guns, the duel being intense on the northern line in the hilly region between the Brenta and Piave rivers.

HEAVY CAPTURES BY THE BRITISH.

London, December 3.—According to figures given out by the war office tonight the British captured on all fronts in the month of November 26,869 prisoners and 221 guns. Among the captures were 11,551 men and 138 guns were taken on the western front, 10,454 men and eighty guns in Palestine and since the smashing of the Hindenburg line.

By noon there were indications that the German onslaught might equal if not surpass in fierceness their drive which carried them through the British front south of Gonnelieu last Friday.

Kept Coming in Waves.

The British infantry and artillery met the shock brilliantly and were holding their own strongly through the first grim hours of fighting. The Germans approached La Vacquerie from the east and southeast and at the outset it appeared that the attack was comparatively local. In their initial charge the enemy came up against a stone wall and were forced to fall back. They kept coming in waves, however, and finally obtained a footing in the town, but immediately were ejected.

Intense fighting at close quarters followed and as this progressed the Germans developed an offensive operation further down the line. By 11 o'clock their artillery was maintaining a drum fire against the whole front involved.

As the day wore on the German attack also spread northward toward Masnieres and became even fiercer. The battle about La Vacquerie was particularly intense with the contending forces at close grips.

There appeared to be no doubt that the enemy intended to break through the British front if possible regardless of cost. The Germans were flinging infantry into the assault in heavy waves and their losses have already been great as must necessarily result from this method of warfare.

For this counter offensive a great number of men are being employed by the Germans. Up to the latest report, however, the reinforced British were meeting the onslaughts firmly and a spirit of optimism pervaded the defending camp, although none denied the seriousness of the situation.

British Official Report.

London, December 3.—"From Gonnelieu to Marcoing," Field Marshal Haig's report from France tonight says, "the enemy delivered attacks in great strength with large forces and has been repulsed with havy losses.

"The enemy resumed the offensive on the Cambrai battle front with great violence," says the statement. "Fighting of an exceptionally severe nature has taken place today. Our positions have been maintained everywhere except at La Vacquerie and east of Marcoing, where our line has been slightly withdrawn.

"South of Marcoing the enemy broke through at one point, but the situation was restored by an immediate counter attack.

"On the Ypres battle front there was local fighting southeast of Polygon wood. As a result we advanced our line slightly and secured prisoners.

"In a minor operation yesterday north of Passchendaele we took 129 prisoners and a few machine guns."

GERMANS CLAIM MANY PRISONERS.

Berlin, December 3.—Since Friday the Germans have captured 6,000 British prisoners in the Cambrai region, the German general staff announced today. The guns taken numbered 100.

The statement says:

"Western theater: Front of Crown Prince Rupprecht: Early yesterday, after a violent drum fire during a moonlight night, the British with strong forces attacked our positions at and north of Passchendaele. Thuringian and Hessian troops threw back the enemy in a sharp counter-attack and took sixty prisoners. After the attack had been beaten off the firing died down, but increased again at times in the evening to considerable violence.

"The battlefield near Cambrai was the scene of artillery activity of a lively nature only in a few sectors.

"In the evening the enemy attacked and there was violent fighting during the night.

"A British local attack at La Vacquerie broke down. In a counter attack nine guns and eighteen machine guns were captured. The number of prisoners taken since Friday has increased to 6,000 and the guns to 100.

"Front of the German Crown Prince: In the Argonne, after successful enterprises, prisoners were brought in.

"Front of Archduke Albrecht: Lively enemy activity continues in Thanner valley and in Sundgau. In the last three days our opponents lost in aerial fighting and by gunfire from the ground twenty-seven airplanes and two captive balloons."

The supplementary report from general headquarters tonight says:

"To the southwest of Cambrai there were local successful engagements."

GERMANS MAKING GREAT ATTEMPT TO GET THROUGH

With the British Army in France, December 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Germans today were making their second great attempt to break through the British defenses in the Gonnelieu sector and pinch off the salient which General Byng recently drove into the enemy territory a little further to the north. The German assault was launched against La Vacquerie shortly before 9 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. Within two hours a heavy battle was in progress over a considerable front from La Vacquerie southward toward Vendhuile.

The enemy was employing great forces of infantry which were sent forward under terrific artillery bombardments from a concentration of guns which the Germans had perfected 4,403 men and three guns in East Africa.

Terrifying Skin Diseases Are Promptly Reached Through Blood

Surface Irritations Come From Deep-Seated Causes.

If you are a victim of itching, burning eczema, with its fiery tortures that often seem unbearable, you are of course anxious to know how to rid yourself of this terrifying disease.

If you could learn of a sensible, rational method of treatment that would give results, you would gladly give it a trial, and thank the day that brought it to your notice.

Such a remedy is within your reach, and you have but to follow the results of scientific research to find the relief you are looking for.

The mistake you have made is the same that thousands of others have made in thinking that the disease is on the surface of the skin, and hence could be permanently cured by local remedies.

Eczema and other inflammations and irritations of the skin that are commonly called skin diseases, do not come alone from a diseased condition of the skin, but the real cause is an impurity in the blood. No progress toward a permanent cure can be expected from local remedies alone. But also cleanse the blood thoroughly, and you will find relief.

S. S. S. is the great unrivalled blood remedy, which has been used with the greatest success for more than fifty years. It is sold by druggists everywhere. But be sure and get the genuine S. S. S. Walton Street

This is one of the most promising business streets in Atlanta; it starts out at a busy point on Peachtree and is a short cut out to Marietta street. Vacant frontage on Walton street has been estimated in value at $500 to $1,000 a foot; but in the past three years we have had few actual sales to back up values.

Prices were merely symbolic characters representing no actual transfer.

One parcel on Walton street must be sold.

WE ARE OFFERING IT AT LESS THAN $200 A FOOT.
